UN Assembly Considering Disarmament

Western Delegates Hope to Introduce A Compromise

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The U. N. Assembly turned to the thorny disarmament issue today as the West sought to bring Russia back into negotiations by agreeing to add 10 nations to the Disarmament Commission.

Western delegates hoped to introduce a compromise proposal after the Assembly vote on a 24-nation resolution calling for new disarmament negotiations based on the latest Western proposals.

The resolution, which cleared the 82-nation Political Committee 57-9 last week, was certain of Assembly approval.

The compromise plan appeared headed for trouble, however. A Soviet spokesman told a reporter his delegation did not agree with the political makeup of the proposed additions. They reportedly include only one Soviet bloc member—either Poland or Czechoslovakia—and would have pro-Western Tunisia represent the Middle East.

The Russians have announced they will not negotiate on either the 12-nation commission or its five-nation subcommittee as presently organized. This would render the Western call for new arms talks and cripple the whole U. N. disarmament machinery.

There were also rumblings of dissent from India, which originally proposed enlarging the commission by 10 nations. India's plan, which the Russians openly favor, would add both Poland and Czechoslovakia to the commission as well as Communist Yugoslavia and pro-Soviet Egypt.

Russia demanded earlier that the arms negotiations be extended to include all 82 U. N. members. She later indicated she would go along with the Indian compromise.

Arts and Music Building Starts Up This Week

WARRENSBURG (AP)—Construction of a 1½ million dollar applied arts and music building at Central Missouri State College will get under way this week.

The Board of Regents of the college announced today the best bid for the project, to be completed by Sept. 1, 1958, has been accepted and the contractor advised to begin work immediately.

Construction will amount to about $1,285,000, with an additional $200,000 going into equipment for classrooms, practice rooms, laboratories, shops and lecture halls.

The general contractor is the Bob Eldridge Construction Co., Kansas City. Sub-contractors, all of Kansas City, are the Huxtable Engineering Co., for plumbing and heating; J. N. Kelley Electric Co.; Allied Elevator Co., Inc., for an elevator; and the Midland Equipment Co., for seating.

The dual four-story structure will be of masonry and concrete with stone facing.

Departments to be moved into the new units include music, fine arts, industrial arts, agriculture, and home economics.

Features of the building will be a music auditorium seating 400 persons, 42 individual practice rooms, a band room and a lecture hall for the arts department.

Architects are Everitt and Kelti of Kansas City.

College Officials Discuss Weakness of US Education

WASHINGTON (AP)—C. Don (The Professor) Modica, who witnesses say tutors gangsters' sons in mathematics and the social sciences, was called today to testify about New York's garbage disposal racket.

The special Senate committee investigating rackets announced it wants to quiz him about his associations with Albert Anastasia, the recently slain executioner for Murder, Inc., and Vincent J. (Jimmy) Squillante, alleged Mafia mobster, described as Anastasia's godson.

Witnesses have named Anastasia's son Umberto as one of Modica's pupils.

Committee counsel Robert F. Kennedy said Modica and Squillante's brother Nunzio will be important witnesses about racketeering and gunplay in the 50 million dollar a year business of hauling garbage from business places and homes in the New York area. Vincent Squillante is scheduled to testify tomorrow.

The committee has heard testimony about murders, beatings and arson which Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) contends marked Vincent Squillante's rise to power as head of a veritable "business empire" in garbage rackets.

Modica was described by Kennedy as a shadowy figure in underworld circles, a doctor of philosophy, and once a respected member of the New York University faculty. The committee has placed in evidence a staff report that Modica has a record of "convictions for grand larceny and other crimes" and serves as a tutor to children of big shots among crime "syndicate mobsters."

The service also reported that deaths from pneumonia and influenza in 114 large cities increased by only 4 per cent during the week ended Nov. 9 when compared with the previous week. There had been an 11 per cent increase during the week ended Nov. 2.

Deaths from all causes in the 114 cities decreased by less than one per cent last week as compared with the week ended Nov. 2.

The 887 deaths from pneumonia and influenza last week ran three times the 291 in the corresponding 1956 week.

Since Sept. 1 there have been 2,410 more deaths from influenza and pneumonia than in the similar 1956 span. Nearly 90 per cent of the excess occurred in the past six weeks.

The service's weekly summary of the Asian flu situation estimated there were 1,100,000 new cases in 38 states during the week ended Nov. 9, based on reports from state health authorities.

This made the estimated total at least 8,350,000 cases since early June but a spokesman said that was probably a very low calculation.

Heiress Denies Rumors of New Husband Switch

NEW YORK (AP)—Dime store heiress Barbara Hutton denied rumors today that she intended to divorce her sixth husband, Gottfried von Cramm, and marry a New York society man.

"No, it's not true," said Miss Hutton in a telephone interview after the liner United States docked.

She was interviewed with Philip Van Rensselaer, 30, New York social figure, who was a fellow passenger aboard the liner and whose name has been linked romantically with the heiress.

"It's most unfortunate that I can't travel with an enchanting young man without all this talk starting," she said. "It's embarrassing for me."

Van Rensselaer called the rumors "ridiculous."

"After all," he said, "the baroness is married. I was embarrassed. I had to see my brother and we decided it would be nice to come back together."

Railroad Hearing Finished

Passenger Service Will Be Continued For at Least Few Additional Months

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—The Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad's last passenger train service in this state will continue for at least a few months more.

Yesterday before the State Public Service Commission, five days of hearing were completed on the Katy's request to abandon the two cross-state passenger trains between St. Louis and the Kansas state line west of Nevada, Mo.

Arrayed against the railroad were a number of towns which protested removal of the last passenger service some of them have, plus the mail, baggage and express services the trains also provide.

Both sides have 45 days in which to file legal arguments plus an additional 15 days for each side to answer the arguments of the other.

That brings the case up to Jan. 15 and the commission is expected to take several weeks beyond that to hand down a decision.

On the western end of the line principal opponents were the operators of baby chick hatcheries which ship their live products either by mail or express.

On the eastern end were the cream shippers.

Banks along the line also protested because the trains provide quick handling of business with the Federal Reserve District Bank in St. Louis.

On the final day the Katy's comptroller J. T. Stephenson of Dallas, testified that profit and loss figures in the road's annual report for 1956 didn't tell the whole story because taxes, interest on debts and so on weren't included.

The report showed that Missouri operations of the railroad earned $14,711,606 last year while operating costs came to $9,909,325.

Besides, he said, the road must be considered as a unit and parts of the system outside Missouri lost money.

Sedalians Attend War Dads Council

The next meeting of the Missouri state councils of the American War Dads and auxiliary will meet at Sedalia Feb. 22 and 23 at the Hotel Bothwell. This arrangement was completed by Leslie W. Lippitt, Joplin, A.W.D. state president and two Sedalia representatives attending the recent meetings at Jefferson City. The Sedalia Dads there were Fred Shaw, 1611 South Ohio, and T. W. Taylor, 1010 South Monroe.

The Saturday night dinner, falling on Washington's birthday, will be made the occasion for an Americanism program. The two chairmen handling arrangements for that event will be William H. Santen, Richmond Heights, and Mrs. Fred Janes, Kansas City.

The Dads and auxiliary members meeting here will total about 100.

60-Foot-Deep Hole Threatens 9 Homes, Apartment House

SEATTLE (AP)—Seventy-five persons were evacuated today as a gaping hole 60 feet deep opened in a North End boulevard and threatened to swallow nine homes and an apartment house.

The ugly black crater, the stubby ends of broken water, gas and sewer pipes jutting from its sides, was 150 feet long and 75 feet wide.

At one point the lip of the hole was only nine feet from the foundation of one of the threatened homes.

The hole, caused by a break in a sewer 145 feet under Ravenna Blvd., nearly doubled in size in a few minutes. The edge crumbled away at the rate of about a foot a minute.

The dirt was being sucked into the sewer.

Fifty persons evacuated at the orders of police were residents of the nine homes and the five-unit apartment house directly threatened by the hole. The others lived in homes flooded by backed up sewers.

The boulevard at the hole ceased to exist. The attractive parkway and a tree-lined center strip ended in the muddy hole.

Workmen just managed to save tons of steel beams and a crane sent to the scene only yesterday. The steel beams were to have been used to shore up the sides of the hole.

Several of the beams sunk into place yesterday were trisected like soft wire when the sides of the hole started crumbling again.

The danger increased when a gas main broke.

The hole is a few blocks north of the University of Washington.

Water backed up in sewers also threatened a number of other streets in the area. Backed up water gushed from storm sewers in the area served by the broken trunk sewer.

More Than 30,000 Flee Before Flood

ROVIGO, Italy (AP)—More than 30,000 Po River delta inhabitants fled today from a combination of flood waters and Adriatic Sea tides sweeping this north Italy farm area for the fifth time in two years.

The town of Porto Tolle was being evacuated after a 15-foot stretch of dike gave way last night. While motorboats and fishing craft removed 23,000 residents and 7,000 flood refugees from the town, other delta residents crowded along the only road left open to higher ground.

No casualties were reported from the flood. They began Monday after several days of rain on the upper Po River. Dikes began letting both flood and sea water into rich farm land.

Today was the sixth anniversary of the worst day in the 1951 Po delta floods, which left about 100 dead, 250,000 homeless and damage estimated at 48 million dollars.

ICC Approves MoPac Building of Branch

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission today authorized the Missouri Pacific Railroad to build a 24-mile branch in Washington County, Mo., to serve a new iron ore development.

The branch will run from Mineral Point - Potots through Latty and Trout to the mining area near Pea Ridge.

The Missouri Pacific said ore deposits are to be developed by St. Joseph Lead Co. and Bethlehem Steel Co., which estimate the area has around 100 million tons of iron ore, of which 50 per cent is high grade.

'Professor' Is Summoned To Testify About Rackets

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 14 (AP)—Missouri and Kansas college officials expressed accord yesterday on continued self-examination of educational goals and methods, but differed on where weaknesses lie in education.

The college presidents and trustees commented at a press conference after a Chamber of Commerce luncheon where the main speaker was Dr. H. W. Prentiss, Jr., Lancaster, Pa., board chairman of the Armstrong Cork Co.

Asked for a summary on the nation's scientific shortcomings, Dr. Prentiss said:

"It shows the need to stiffen mathematics and science requirements in secondary schools so more graduates can qualify for advanced courses in colleges and universities."

"I would like to see research that seconds that statement," said Dr. John E. King, president of Emporia State College. "It makes an excellent sound for all of us to point to the defects in high school, but they are doing a better job than we are. Kansas is producing twice as many gifted students in high schools as we are getting into our college curriculums."

Dr. Elmer Ellis, president of the University of Missouri, said the practical bottleneck is mathematics in high school.

"We must make a strong effort to get mathematics to those in high school qualified to take it," he added.

Nonmilitary Projects May Be Eliminated

President Declares Balancing Budget Second to Security

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—President Eisenhower last night warned the cost of space age weapons means a "very considerable" boost in defense spending is coming and that Congress will have to face the tough task of cutting nonessential national programs.

He said Americans won't tolerate sacrificing security to the worship of a balanced budget.

This impending boost will mean sharp cuts in some nonmilitary spending programs in next year's budget to offset a part of the hike, he said.

Some of these programs may have to be eliminated entirely, the President declared. He departed from his prepared text to add: "And pressure groups will wait in anguish."

In a nationwide television-radio address, the President also called for a stepped-up educational program of training scientists to meet the Russian threat. He suggested the program include such incentives as fellowship grants to provide more science teachers. But he did not go into detail on his suggestion.

He also called for greater concentration on basic research, saying "the warning lies in the fast rate of increase of the Soviet effort" in that field of science.

Making the second of a series of "chins up" talks designed to bolster United States confidence in free world defense capabilities, Eisenhower said Russia's challenge is being met and will continue to be met.

He cautioned that the Soviet Union's recent achievements in development of weapons of the future mean "there is danger ahead for free men everywhere."

The President, addressing an overflow audience in the 6,000-seat Municipal Auditorium, recalled that Nazi dictator Hitler once boasted he would bury the free world.

"Not enough people took him at his word," Eisenhower said in likening the situation then to the Russian threat today.

"We shall not make that mistake again," he declared.

Eisenhower's assertion that defense spending on missiles and other weapons of the future must be hiked by "a very considerable figure" quite likely killed any remaining hope for a tax cut next year.

Freud's Son Says Sex Not a Topic During His Youth

LONDON (AP)—A son of the late Sigmund Freud, who revolutionized the Western world's thinking about sex, said today the subject was never mentioned in their house.

"I didn't know the full facts of life until I was 17," said Martin Freud, 68, who runs a tobacco and candy shop.

Freud was interviewed in connection with his forthcoming book, "Glory Reflected," about life with the pioneer psychoanalyst.

"My father never talked about his work," Freud explained. "Like all children of those days we had to find out about life for ourselves."

Martin Freud was a lawyer in Vienna but fled to Britain when the Nazis took over. He worked as a plumber's assistant, an auditor, and as helper to an undertaker before settling down in his little shop in the Bloomsbury district.

Betty Cross Becomes Bride Of P. Bergmann

Miss Betty Jean Cross, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lacey R. Cross, Overland, became the bride of Phillip J. Bergman Jr., St. Louis, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Bergmann, Sr., 902 East 18th, at 8 o'clock in the evening of October 19 at the Immanuel Lutheran Church in Olivette, Mo. The Rev. Walter J. Hoffman performed the double ring ceremony.

A. Mueller, organist, played a prelude of wedding music prior to the ceremony. Miss Philomena Bergmann, Fairfield, Ill., sang "The Lord My Shepherd Is" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father. She wore a gown of imported Chantilly lace and nylon tulle, fashioned with a Sabrina neckline outlined with pearls and sequins and the bouffant skirt lengthened into an aisle-wide train. A crown of orange blossoms, pearls and sequins held her fingertip veil of illusion. She carried a bouquet of white roses and stephanotis.

Miss Doris Hoffman was maid of honor. She wore a frock of turquoise tulle over taffeta with matching headband and carried pink roses. Mrs. Dorothy Hoffman and Miss Lucille Jellison were bridesmaids. Their dresses were identical to the maid of honor's and they carried Orange Delight roses.

Miss Barbara Ott and Miss Annalee Judge, were junior bridesmaids. They wore coral dresses identical in design to the maid of honor's. Their headbands were of matching color and they carried yellow roses.

Mark Bergmann, Sedalia, served as his brother's best man and groomsmen were Dale Hoffman, Overland, cousin of the bride, and Lacey Cross Jr., Aberdeen, Md., brother of the bride. Eugene Hoffman, St. Louis, Richard Null, Overland, and Eugene Bergmann, Ruston, La., ushered. Preceding the ceremony the ushers lighted the candles.

Little Josephine Hoffman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Hoffman, St. Louis, was flower girl. She was dressed in shrimp tulle over taffeta with matching bonnet and carried yellow roses in a basket.

Richard Parks, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Parks, Columbia, carried the rings on a white satin pillow. The bride's mother wore a pink lace dress and white rosebud corsage. The bridegroom's mother was attired in a navy blue crepe and her corsage was also of white rosebuds.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the church basement.

Pink and white streamers and wedding bells were used as decorations. A miniature bride and groom topped the three tier wedding cake.

Mrs. Mark Bergmann, Sedalia, was in charge of the guest book. They are residing at Florissant, Mo.

To Observe Special Week For Education

Here in Sedalia as in most schools throughout the nation, extra effort is being made to encourage interest and acquaintance with the schools. All schools are always open for visitation, but this week there is a special emphasis being made to seek interested parents and friends to visit Sedalia schools.

This being the centennial year for the National Education Association, Sedalia schools are justly proud of maintaining a 100 per cent membership for the past 37 years.

The White House has officially proclaimed Nov. 10-16 as American Education Week.

"Whereas education has advanced the national welfare by enriching our culture, by providing a surer foundation for our freedoms, and by helping to prepare our citizens for the demands of each new age; and

"Whereas our educational institutions have lifted the people of each generation to higher levels of personal living and have trained them for greater service to their fellow men; and

"Whereas Americans are proud of their educational system and have shown their determination to widen the road of opportunity by maintaining the highest standards of scholarship;

"Now, therefore, I, Dwight D. Eisenhower, President of the United States of America, do hereby designate the period from Nov. 10 to Nov. 16, 1957, as American Education Week, and I urge our people to enter fully into its observance. Let them demonstrate their appreciation of the work of our Nation's teachers, and let them show their active support for every program designed to improve our schools and colleges, which are firmly engaged in building a better and a stronger Nation."

American Education Week, which has been observed annually since 1921, is sponsored by the NEA, the American Legion, the United States Office of Education, and the National Congress of Parents and Teachers. The theme for 1957 is that of the NEA centennial: "An Educated People Moves Freedom Forward."

Reno Council Orders Photograph for Permit

RENO — The City Council listened patiently to complaints that an ordinance requiring the photographing of work permits of Chinese employed in gambling houses was discriminatory.

It passed a new ordinance requiring that everyone be photographed.

Police Chief T. R. Berry said he needed photographs because otherwise he couldn't tell one Chinese from another.

Man Charges Dentist Drill Lodged in Lung

LOGAN, W.Va. — Charles Frye Jr., who says he had to undergo surgery for removal of a dentist's drill which became disengaged and went down his throat has sued the dentist for $75,000.

The suit, filed yesterday in U.S. District Court, named Dr. A. F. Winter of Logan, W.Va.

Frye, formerly of Logan, now of Boynton Beach, Fla., said the drill lodged in his left lung.

NATO Studies Plans for Air Missile Pad

PARIS (AP)—NATO's aeronautical research director said today the North Atlantic Treaty Organization is studying plans to build aerial platforms for the launching of nuclear missiles.

These, Dr. Theodore von Karman told a news conference, would be in addition to the submarine nuclear platforms whose production U.S. Sen. Jackson (D-Wash.) urged yesterday.

Jackson told the newsmen today the United States is going ahead with development of a nuclear-powered intercontinental ballistic missile. He said it would be a one-stage rocket and more efficient than chemically propelled missiles after 2,000 miles.

Von Karman, former chief scientific adviser to the U.S. Air Force and now director of NATO's aeronautical research and development program, said plans for aerial launching platforms are still only preliminary. He said the underwater ones — using atomic submarines — are not envisaged before 1960.

The scientist, described by Sen. Jackson as the world's greatest aeronautical engineer, said that missile-launching subs would have the advantage of being able to approach close enough to targets to use rockets propelled by solid fuel. These, he said, are much simpler than the elaborate three-stage long-distance missiles.

Von Karman said he believed the Soviet successes with intercontinental ballistic missiles and artificial satellites showed they "have put the fuels of the future into practical use sooner than we did."

"These are not miraculous fuels," he said, "but ones which are only in the development stage in our countries."

NATO Secretary General Paul-Henri Spaak opened today's session of the NATO Parliamentary Assembly with a speech saying the Soviet Sputnik "is NATO's

Builders Look For Money Mart Change

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Home and office builders are watching closely today for the turn of the tide in the tight money mortgage market.

Some feel sure it will come next year, making 1958 the time to build. Others are just as sure that long-term financing will be as tight and expensive two or three years from now as it is today.

Those who think tight money is due to ease soon cite a fall in supply of home mortgages this year because home building is off, and also count on an expected drop next year in demand for funds for business expansion. They argue these two things will make investment funds plentiful.

The doubting Thomases say that there are fewer new mortgages today simply because money is so tight and borrowing so expensive that fewer persons can afford to build houses. They say that any drop in demand for new financing by business will be more than offset by rising demand for funds by state, local and federal governments.

They add that big lenders—insurance companies, large banks and investment firms—don't expect to have more money to lend next year than this.

A drop in interest rates on long-term borrowing such as mortgages for home and office building is called unlikely for some time, although short-term interest rates may ease as business lets up on its demand for funds. Builders report interest charges still tend to rise, especially for commercial buildings.

At the Dallas meeting last week of the Mortgage Bankers Assn. of America there was much optimistic talk of a pickup in home building next year. But George W. Warnecke, head of his national

AF Is Proud Of Tanker's Record Trips

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Air Force today pointed to the record-setting flights of a jet tanker plane as evidence that its far-reaching striking power must not be downgraded in this dawn missile era.

The KC135 jet tanker hops to Buenos Aires and back were part of an apparent Air Force demonstration of strength and mobility. There also were distance flights of bombers and fighters far into the Pacific, and a group of B52 intercontinental jet bombers stated on a visit to Argentina.

The Boeing KC135 and its crew—headed by Gen. Curtis E. LeMay—received special welcome here yesterday after flying 5,204 miles from Buenos Aires in 11 hours, 5 minutes and 40 seconds of a second. This first nonstop jet flight between the Argentine capital and Washington was made at an average speed of 469.5 miles an hour.

This same ship and crew last Monday set a distance record for nonrefueled jet flight in streaking from Westover Air Force Base, Mass., to Buenos Aires—a stretch of 6,325 miles—in 13 hours, 2 minutes and 51 seconds. That flight was made over a longer range to underscore the plane's long reach.

LeMay, Air Force vice chief of staff, piloted the KC135 for both trips. He received the Distinguished Flying Cross at an airport ceremony on his arrival here. Other members of the tanker's crew also were decorated.

Gen. Thomas D. White, Air Force chief of staff, said the achievement is "just one indication of the global capabilities" of the Air Force.

Blackwater Club Learns About Russia, Norway

The Blackwater Township Extension Club met with Mrs. Jerome Younger and Mrs. York Finley the first Friday in November. A contributive dinner was served at the noon hour. The outstanding centerpiece was made of maple leaves, which Mrs. Younger had dipped in paraffin and sprinkled with gold dust.

In the afternoon the club members enjoyed a travelogue given by Harry Buck, who told of his travels in "far away places." He and Mrs. Buck were in Norway, the land of the midnight sun, for several days. In parts of Norway, ten weeks out of the year the sun never sets.

They entered Russia on their own, from a boat that sailed from Copenhagen, and were rather anticipating trouble as few Russians speak English. However, they found the customs officers as well as all of the people very courteous and polite, especially the common people.

At Leningrad, which is about the size of Chicago, they were met at the train by a guide. There they joined their party of ten and were also assigned an interpreter or courier. The courier was a very lovely young woman about 20 years old whom they called Margaret. She looked and acted very much like an American girl. Some of the women in the party asked Margaret to show them her home but she refused. Mr. Buck added that in their entire Russian trip they were not in a single private home.

Moscow is an enormous city as large as St. Louis, Kansas City and Chicago combined. They have a wonderful transit system but few private cars. There is not as much traffic in the afternoon on one of the large squares in Moscow as there is on the square in Marshall. There are few churches and the Russians do not observe a sabbath.

The Kremlin is the outstanding attraction in Russia. Outside the Kremlin wall is Red Square, where the working people hold their parades and demonstrations on holidays and special occasions. Between the Kremlin wall and Red Square is the mausoleum in which are the bodies of Lenin and Stalin. They lie there side by side, dressed in business suits and very life-like. Several thousands visit the mausoleum every day. Lines form at daylight, although the gate is not opened until 1 p.m.

Mr. Buck told of his visit to Moscow University, with an enrollment of 28,000 students. The only one he found who spoke English was a Chinese student. When asked about their social activities at the University, he was told they had none—they were there to study.

The theatre in Russia is called a circus, presumably because the stage is in the center. The people attend largely in everyday dress.

Mr. Buck told of the collective farm they visited and the amazement of the people when he a "Western capitalist" milked one of their cows. The Russian people have no concept of our great middle class Americans. They think every one is either very wealthy or very poor. The Russian women do much manual labor but still wear feminine dress.

After Mr. Buck's talk a routine business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Walter Schanz. Because of flu in the community only ten members answered roll call. The club adjourned to meet with Mrs. Schanz in December.

Heads Volunteers

Mrs. Lou Gehrig, national campaign chairman of Muscular Dystrophy Association of America, Inc., heads hundreds of thousands of volunteers who will call on their neighbors in the nationwide March for Muscular Dystrophy. Funds are being sought to increase research into the crippling, fatal disease which numbers more than 200,000 victims, the majority of them children, in this country alone.

Should Stop Worrying About Soviet Sputniks

NEW YORK (AP)—Former President Harry Truman says the nation should stop worrying about Russia's Sputniks and concentrate on civil rights, including the problem posed by Little Rock.

Truman, speaking last night at a dinner of the Joint Defense Appeal of the American Jewish Committee and the Anti-Defamation League of the B'nai B'rith, said: "Don't worry about the Sputniks. We can take care of that situation."

"Let's make sure we preserve the greatest inspiration we can give the world, the liberties and rights we profess through one of the most wonderful documents in the world—the Constitution of the United States."

He added: "Our attitude on this vital struggle for equal opportunity and human liberty is being watched by the world."

Before the dinner at the Commodore Hotel, Truman told newsmen the Eisenhower administration "inherited a bipartisan foreign policy, and they threw it out the window, and it's a little late now to start one."

Civil War Vet Observes 115th Birthday Today

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—The oldest living Civil War veteran, Walter Williams, celebrates his 115th birthday today listening to the country music of Texas Ruby and Curley Fox.

The entertainers will play "Dixie" and "Cotton-eyed Joe," two tunes requested by the white-haired, bed-ridden Williams.

Mrs. Willie Mae Bowles, Williams' daughter, said the veteran was looking forward to the party. "I'll be 115 years old and that's a mighty long time to live," she quoted him as saying.

The only thing bothering Williams was the absence from home of his wife, who died Nov. 2 at the age of 84 of a heart ailment.

Williams had not been told of her death, Mrs. Bowles said, because doctors were afraid the news would have a bad effect on him.

Mrs. Bowles said "he's been fretting and worrying about her." A three-layer birthday cake covered with 115 candles was ready for Williams.

Williams will be propped up in bed for a while during the open house, but Mrs. Bowles said he would not leave the bed or wear the Confederate uniform given him two years ago.

Williams is one of two Civil War veterans still living. The other is 111-year-old John Stalling of Slant, Va.

The old soldier was born Nov. 14, 1842 in Itawamba County, Miss. He served as a forage master during the Civil War.

Speaks Against Using Subliminal Perception

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—The National Assn. of Radio & Television Broadcasters code review board for TV asked stations yesterday not to use a method that flashes commercials to the viewers' subconscious.

The idea has created quite a furor. Don Martin, assistant to the president of NARTB, said that by this method a message is flashed at 1-3000th of a second, and repeated every five seconds during the showing of a movie.

He said the viewer does not even see the message, or at least is not conscious of seeing it, but it does reach his brain.

The board held that "any proposal to use...subliminal perception" be referred to the board immediately for further review and consideration.

U.S. VS. RUSSIA—Newschart shows the heights attained by Russia's Sputniks I and II, and the U.S. Far Side Rocket. The Far Side, fired by the Air Force, is shot straight up. No attempt is made to orbit it. Scientists say, however, that by turning it horizontally the rocket may be transformed into a satellite, like the Sputniks.

Antarctic Veterans May Be Able To Go Home for Christmas

MCMURDO SOUND, Antarctica (AP)—The Navy's "old explorers," veterans of the long dark winter in the antarctic, were told today some but not all of them might get out by Christmas.

Rear Adm. George J. Duiek, Navy commander in the antarctic, told an assembly of the men due for rotation they could leave any time their one-year assignments are up and their jobs completed, if weather and ice conditions permit planes and ships to take them out.

Nineteen veterans of the recently ended polar winter have left. More than 60 others remain.

Duiek said to Navy ships, the Greenville Victory and the icebreaker Atka, are due to leave Christchurch, New Zealand, Nov. 22 with supplies for the U.S. stations at Little America and McMurdo.

Actress and Husband Sue Adopted Daughter Of Comedian Benny

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Actress Donna Reed and her husband, producer Tony Owen, are suing the adopted daughter of comedian Jack Benny for $20,500 in connection with the sale of their house.

The complaint, filed yesterday in Superior Court, charged that the comedian's daughter Joan and her husband Alan (Bud) Rudolph, a clothing merchant, agreed to buy Owens' Beverly Hills home for $95,000, but later backed out of the deal.

The Owens said they later sold the house, but incurred expenses not contemplated in the agreement with the Rudolphs.

Psychologist Says Noise Breeds Violence

NEW YORK (AP)—A psychologist says noise contributes toward violence in both humans and animals. Dr. Fabian Rouke, head of the psychology department at Manhattan College, has been asked to organize a research group and conduct a study of noise hazards for New York's "quiet city" campaign.

Rouke said, "It is known that sound. They will take out some veterans and others will be flown home, the admiral said."

B-58 BUICK

Now you can Switch the Pitch a Million Ways

FLIGHT PITCH DYNAFLOW*—last word in travel with your wheels on the ground

Maybe you've felt smooth transmissions before.

Maybe you've had obedient response before.

But take it from us—you have never in all your born days known anything like this Buick's Flight Pitch Dynafowl

This one switches the pitch a million ways—automatically, smoothly, thrillingly.

Thanks to a new infinite-pitch stator, you get the most efficient ratio of engine power to rear-wheel turning on the American scene today.

The result: an exuberant feeling of aliveness—a new sense of command unlike anything you've known before.

One-Fourth Of US Bitten By Cold Bug

CLEVELAND (AP)—At least one fourth of the nation's people have had to spend a day or more in bed since mid-summer because of severe colds, sore throat, Asian flu or similar upper respiratory ills, a report by a U. S. Public Health Service official showed today. There were 38 million so affected from mid-July to October. Dr. William Stewart, assistant to the surgeon general of USPHS summarized the latest available data on the Asian flu situation before the 85th annual meeting of the American Public Health Assn. As to Asian flu alone, he said: "The anticipated epidemics are now occurring in various parts of the country, particularly in the middle Atlantic and east north central states. "Slight to moderate increases in mortality (that is, above normal seasonal rates) chiefly among older persons, have occurred in several places where epidemics are in progress."

He said that "future spread of the epidemic can be anticipated in essentially all parts of the country not now affected," and added: "A high national incidence can be expected to continue for a period of six to eight weeks. The Public Health Service urges that vaccination against influenza be promoted vigorously."

Stewart said some idea of the prevalence of Asian flu could be derived from reports obtained in connection with the national health survey, in which the Bureau of the Census interviewed a representative national sample of households for the Public Health Service. The resulting estimates indicate, he said, that during the period from July 15 to October 5 there were an estimated 38 million people with acute respiratory diseases severe enough to cause them to go to bed.

Stewart said that during the week ended October 12, an estimated 8.5 million persons throughout the country had colds, sore throats, influenza or similar diseases severe enough to put them to bed. The average number of persons in bed each day that week as a result of these illnesses was about 3 million. A great many of these cases undoubtedly were Asian flu.

Sputnik II May Circle Earth a Year

WASHINGTON (AP)—U. S. scientists say that Russia's second satellite may continue circling the earth for a year or more.

Some earlier thought among scientists at the Naval Research Laboratory was that the half-ton Sputnik II might plunge earthward earlier than Sputnik I. There have been predictions the first satellite, a small sphere, will fall out of orbit Dec. 11.

The scientists said Sputnik II is apparently slowing down more gradually than they previously believed.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for the U. S. space satellite program, Project Vanguard, said American scientists are "now pretty close" to asking that the launching pad at Cape Canaveral, Fla., be cleared for firing the first U. S. satellite test sphere.

Announced American plans call for launching small test spheres next month and firing the first fully developed satellite in March. A spokesman for the Grand Central Rocket Co., Mentone, Calif.,

An Ancient Business

Optimists Are Told Details Of Goldfish-Raising Industry

A very informative talk was given Tuesday noon at Optimist Club by Stanton Hudson, Jr., on goldfish as an industry. Hudson was in this business before he returned to Sedalia to be associated with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanton Hudson, publishers of the Sedalia Times.

Missouri, said Hudson, perhaps leads in this industry. The goldfish business is a farming operation, he explained, and the fish eat the same food as chickens and their food costs only 3½ cents a pound while the fish sell for $2 to $15 a pound. There is money in it, he said, but of course, it isn't all profit. There are other things, too, and a great deal of work.

The growing of ornamental goldfish started thousands of years ago in China, the speaker said. This fish belongs to the minnow family, but it has been domesticated and selectively bred. The culture went from China to Japan where the greatest development took place. The culture of ornamental fish came to the United States in the late 1800s, he said.

The culture of the goldfish in the state of California is practiced by the Japanese and they have a big market there. The handicap there is that the hatcheries must be completely covered with wire to keep the seagulls from getting the fish.

In Indiana, at Grassy Fort, big ponds are scooped out in a seepy, swampy region. In Maryland there is one large hatchery at Three Springs, but it is not a major one. In Pennsylvania, he said, the Lancaster Co. produces goldfish and there are small growers in Massachusetts. Michigan has one fancy goldfish hatchery and Mississippi, Tennessee and Alabama have an extensive type hatchery where they grow rice. They can only grow rice two years and so then the area is used for growing fish. The fish in the South is grown for bait.

Brood stock, Hudson said, will spawn at one year but two years is the age for breeders and there will breed over eight or ten years, he said. Eggs do not hatch very well, and so they scrap the old breeders or sell them for trout line bait.

They start out with a nest of Spanish moss, which is a clean, wiry fiber and make it into balls which are attached to two wires and fastened to a frame, which, this man knows because he has worked with them, are very heavy and wet. The winter is spent making good nests. They make about 2,500 good nests to start the season, he said, and a nest will last two seasons. They are placed in brood ponds at about 4 o'clock in the morning in the spring. The female is attended by several males. The eggs are laid on the nest and the nests are covered with fresh new nests or pulled out. They are taken to a pond where they hatch.

About an inch or two of water is used because if the pond leaks they lose the eggs. The nests, he said, are washed well with a hose before they are used again. For a few days the fish are fed by hand with wet feed put well around the edge of the pond. As the fish grow older, they are given dry feed and then regular feed.

Goldfish, when young, said Hudson, are susceptible to parasites and ponds have to be treated. What makes a successful treatment and what kills fish is very close, he said, and so care must be taken. A pump on a tractor is used, the water goes through the pump and back into the pond. Formaldehyde was originally used and after trying many other things that still seems to be the best.

There is a worry about size, too, said Hudson, especially with the fancy fish. If you let them get too big, you can't sell them, and you must shift them to hold down the size. They need plenty of room to grow. They are all carp color to begin with and it takes time to get color. They are not harvested until fall. Then they are seined and dipped, which is a real difficulty if the weather is cold. The water is drained and the fish scooped up and put in a bucket. They are graded and sorted and hatcheries have boxes for the different sizes. They used to be shipped in galvanized cans, said Hudson, but transportation became a problem. Now Ozark ships them in plastic bags which has had both water and oxygen put into it and it is then put into a box, and the goldfish need nothing done to them.

The capital investment in the gold fish industry, Hudson said, is for the hatchery, which is well over a million dollars, but, there is money in this industry and it is a fascinating business.

The speaker was introduced by Marvin Boehne.

The meeting was conducted by Claude L. Boul, president, with invocation by the Rev. James H. Schrader, assistant pastor of Sacred Heart. Singing was led by Charles Hanna, with Miss Lillian Fox at the piano.

Welcomed as new members to the club were Ed Mitchell by transfer, the Rev. Father Schrader and Bob Beykirch.

A new phase of boys work will be entered upon by the Optimist Club, through the services of one of the new members of the organization, Tom Delph. When the club was asked recently by Mrs. George West to help a boy who cannot walk by giving him tools so that he might do leatherwork and make things, the club found it could go further than that — it could also provide an Optimist who could teach him. Tom Delph not only agreed to do the buying of the tools for the club but he volunteered his services to teach the boy how to use them, for he, himself, does leather work.

Lions Club Sees Atom Bomb Film

The Sedalia Lions Club had a look at science and the atom through a motion picture shown by Mill Skinner at the noon meeting Wednesday. The program was in charge of W. C. Ream.

The picture gave scientific diagrams on the atom and the atom bomb.

M-Sgt. Verne Kuhn, U. S. Army, was introduced as a new member of the local club.

Guest at the meeting was Gene Allen, Muskogee, Okla., of Philip Pfeiffer.

A report on the holiday fruit cake sale was given by John B. Ellison, and President A. B. Warren, in which it was indicated the club would pass its original goal of 400 fruit cakes. Money obtained through the sale of these cakes will be used in the Lions Club functions connected with the Crippled Children's Center.

Women's Division Of United Fund Almost Reaches $5,000 Goal

The Women's Division of the United Fund under Mrs. J. W. Boger has reached a total of $4,495.30, which isn't too far from their goal of $5,000.

Mrs. Boger would like so much to reach the goal and she believes that this might be done if some of the people who were missed for one reason or another would send her their contributions. Mrs. Boger has received a number of donations from people who wanted to give but had not been contacted and just the other day received a check for $10, with a note that they had been missed and wanted their share.

BPW Is Represented At All-American Meet

Dates Ahead

Monday, Dec. 2 — Extension Club enrollment blanks due.

Monday, Dec. 9 — Quarterly meeting of the Home Economics Extension Club Council. Presidents will meet at 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. with a sack lunch at the noon hour.

Cake Decorating demonstration 1:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. by Mrs. Louvina Magness, Home Agent in Training. All Extension members and friends invited.

Monthly News Letter

Beginning with this month I will prepare a monthly newsletter for Extension Clubs.

The plans for the coming year as set up by the Home Economics Extension Club Council is to eliminate some of the training meetings. I hope to take care of some of the needed information by the use of the monthly letter. Suggestions will be appreciated.

Club Enrollments Due Dec. 1

The Extension Club enrollment blanks are due Dec. 1. Mrs. Bill Patterson, Stokley Extension Club president, was the first to get her club's blank mailed to this office.

Use the Outside Window Box

Many people leave their window boxes in place during the winter, but the empty box looks dismal. Why not turn them into a bird feeding station which can give a great deal of pleasure?

Evergreen branches may be placed ed in the box to provide shelter, with open spaces between them kept free of snow for the spreading of bird food. During late fall, berried branches of various trees and shrubs may be added for the birds to pick on. The evergreen branches will not remain alive, but the needles will stay green until late winter, and then they could be replaced.

Sweater Care

With the teenager as well as adults wearing sweaters now is a good time to discuss how to properly care for them.

If you have been shopping for sweaters lately you have been impressed with the wide range of colors available and the many different fibers that manufacturers have used in making sweaters. For example, wool, nylon, orlon, dacron, cotton and blends of two or more of these fibers make up the new sweaters.

Any of these sweaters can be washed satisfactorily if you use proper washing methods. Wool sweaters will need to be blocked. To do this, before you wash, trace an outline of the sweater on heavy wrapping paper, an old sheet or a piece of plastic. For wash water, make a suds of mild soap or synthetic detergent in lukewarm or cold water. You may like to use the cold water soaps. These are relatively new and are quite satisfactory. Place the sweater in the wash water and let it set for five or ten minutes. Squeeze to remove the soil. Avoid agitation because wool fibers are sensitive to excessive agitation, and heat, so squeeze gently and use warm or cold water. Rinse in clear cool water. The temperature should be about the same as the suds water. Place the sweater on the outline you have prepared and pat into shape. Dry flat at room temperature. Sweaters of synthetic fibers will not need to be blocked, but will need to be patted into shape. When dry, press with a steam iron and cloth or a conventional iron and pressing cloth.

Pilling is a problem on sweaters, particularly those of synthetic fibers. These are small yarn balls or pills that form on the garment. Remove these with brushing. On synthetic fibers, these may be removed with a safety razor, however, this method is not satisfactory with wool sweaters. Flatten the sweater out before you wash it, use a safety razor to shave these pills off.

Always shake and air sweaters after wearing. Never hang sweaters over a hanger. Turn over lengthwise in two folds with sleeves folded and placed to avoid wrinkles. With proper care your sweater wardrobe will give you excellent service over a long period.

Appoint Committees At 4-H Club Meeting

The Willing Workers 4-H Club met at the Blackwater District 100 School, Nov. 4, at 7:30 p.m.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Dickie Best. Cheryl Ann Wright led the club in singing "Home on the Range" and "Battle Hymn of the Republic." Jean Ann Mitchell led in the pledges to the American and 4-H flags. Roll call was answered by "What I am thankful for." Twenty members were present.

A report on the Halloween party given the club members by the Extension Club was given by Cheryl Ann Wright.

The president appointed the following committees: recreation, Linda White, Cheryl Ann Wright, Jimmy Yokely and Ruth Ann Clark. Program, Joyce Kurtz, Judy Marshall, Jean Ann Mitchell and Billy Jim Marshall. Activity, Carol Ann Kurtz and Sally Ann Younger. Health, Bobby Treece, Roger Kurtz and Kirby Thomas.

The president announced that members were to select their projects and report to Mrs. Nathan Wright as soon as possible.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting by Sharen Kay Klasing.

Many Hopeful Oklahomans Go Home Unhappy

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — About 4,000 were turned away from Municipal Auditorium as President Eisenhower spoke last night and some were loudly unhappy about it.

A local public relations firm hired to handle the arrangements announced seating would be on a first-come, first-served basis outside of a few hundred places reserved for the working press.

When the doors were opened last night, only the top deck of the auditorium—holding 599 persons—was filled on that basis. The rest of the seats were reserved. Stan Pate, head of the public relations firm, said the committee in charge of arrangements directed him to hand out some 1,788 tickets to members of the working press, the nonworking press, the sponsoring Frontiers of Science and the State Bicentennial Commission.

Stanley Draper, Chamber of Commerce managing director, said Secret Service agents told him to distribute 700 tickets to the Republican party, 200 to Gov. Raymond Gary, 200 to the secret Service, and 250 to college entertainers who appeared early in the program.

A Secret Service spokesman denied his organization had anything to do with ticket distribution. It was not explained how only 599 of the slightly more than 6,000 seats in the auditorium went unreserved.

"They ought to take all the

Ike Is Cool
Toward Law
For Controls

WASHINGTON (AP)—The administration gave a cool reception today to a proposal that Congress quickly enact a standby law providing wage, price, credit and rationing controls.

Sen. Capehart (R-Ind.) suggested the action yesterday at a two-day conference of 1,200 businessmen-members of the National Defense Executive Reserve.

Government officials attending the sessions indicated clearly, however, the administration would neither recommend nor request the standby power.

"Unquestionably the administration would accept standby authority if Congress voted it," one high mobilization official said, adding: "But we won't ask for it. This administration is committed to a policy of avoiding direct economic controls if possible."

He and others who commented along the same line declined to be quoted by name.

The reservists are business executives who have served in Washington and stand ready to return in event of mobilization.

Capehart told them that the perils now facing the country make it advisable to set up the legal framework for wartime economic regulation.

He said that although he abhors controls, there are circumstances in which they are "necessary to preserve our free enterprise system against the forces of panic and runaway inflation that inevitably come with great emergencies."

But Sen. Bennett (R-Utah) said in an interview that "controls won't solve the problem."

"Every business man I have talked to agrees that the steam has gone out of inflation," he said. "By the time Congress convenes again I think we will have had at least one month when living costs have not gone up."

Bennett called instead for limited spending. He said that if more money is needed for missile development and other defense needs, as President Eisenhower

GREEN RIDGE — Sixty-nine persons between the ages of six months and twenty years received free polio shots at the polio clinic held at the Green Ridge school building Wednesday, Nov. 6. The clinic was sponsored by the Green Ridge PTA.

Eri Anderson has been a patient at the Windsor Hospital for the past week. He is critically ill. His son, Nelson Anderson, Kansas City, spent the week at the home of his parents in Green Ridge.

Recent weekend guests in the home of T. J. Pace in Green Ridge were: Mrs. Estalene Calvert and Donald of Lamar; Miss Dorothy Jean Calvert of Pittsburg, Kan., and Miss Anna Lou Pace of Kansas City. Sunday the family group was joined by Mr. and Mrs. David Calvert and Carl William of Jefferson City.

Mrs. Glen Heck, worthy matron of Guiding Star Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, Green Ridge, spent several days the past week in Kansas City attending Grand Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star of Missouri. Others attending from the Green Ridge community were: Mrs. Helen Turner, district deputy president and Mr. and Mrs. George Tittsworth.

Mrs. Hazel Johnson and daughter Carolyn and Kerry Turner, Kansas City, were recent guests of Mrs. Johnson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Bell.

He said in a radio-TV talk last night, the extra amount ought to be shaved off other activities to prevent deficit spending.

Khrushchev
In Good Form
At Reception

MOSCOW (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev was in his best cocktail party form again last night, tossing off comments on a wide variety of topics. Some remarks of the Soviet Communist party boss:

"I know (the United States) doesn't have the kind of rockets we have and you won't have them soon."

President Eisenhower, Secretary of State Dulles and all other American leaders would be welcomed in Moscow "as dear friends."

Marshal Georgi Zhukov "did not turn out well as a political figure but as a military figure he was a remarkable man."

"Does anyone doubt" that Britain is a satellite of the United States? Khrushchev immediately apologized for this remark and said he was "ready to take it back."

Khrushchev and most important Soviet government leaders turned up at an Egyptian Embassy reception honoring Maj. Gen. Abdel Hakim Amer, visiting Egyptian minister of war and joint commander of Egyptian and Syrian troops.

Khrushchev proposed a toast "to our armies—the armies of the Soviet Union, Egypt and Syria." Both the Egyptian and Syrian armies are armed and advised by Russia.

A British correspondent suggested to Khrushchev that the Soviet Union halt firing of its big rockets.

"We have to test them," the Soviet leader said. "What can we do, pickle them?"

"Put them in a museum," a reporter suggested.

"No room," Khrushchev replied. "Let's sink them all at sea. We'll be happy to do that if you do."

An American correspondent asked, "What if we don't have the same type to sink?"

"Certainly," Khrushchev said. "I know you don't have the kind of rockets we have, and you won't have them soon."

The party boss said in answer to questions that he would welcome visits of American leaders to Moscow and an invitation to

Still No Trace Seen Of Missing Airliner

HONOLULU (AP)—It has been almost a week since Pan American's Stratocruiser Romance of the Skies vanished with 44 persons in the Pacific—and still no trace has been found.

British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan to visit Russia still stands. "Political leaders must not bear grudges" over past differences, he said.

Khrushchev said Zhukov, who was recently ousted from the Defense Ministry and from high party posts, is in Moscow "on a leave he fully deserves."

Phony Check Passer
Gets a Jail Term

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Charles R. Speedie, notorious nationwide phony check passer, has been sentenced to 1 to 14 years in prison.

"You probably will serve most of this sentence," Superior Judge Lewis Drucker commented. "Any time you seek parole you will find eight other states want to extradite and prosecute you."

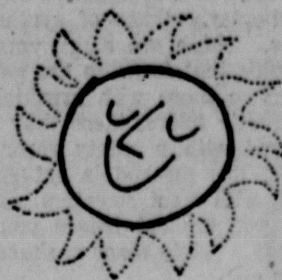

Speedie, arrested Sept. 5 in a Cleveland suburb, was known as the "Traveler" to police across the country. He claims he passed $300,000 in bogus checks during a 15-year career.

IN 58 DAYS A '58 PLYMOUTH RAN 58,000 MILES—EQUAL TO

MORE THAN TWICE AROUND THE WORLD

AND IT DROVE EVERY INCH OF THE WAY!

We knew this car was tough.

We designed it that way.

That's why we weren't afraid to give Plymouth the toughest, true test run of all time...with all America as the "track."

We didn't coddle this Plymouth. Didn't crate it and ship it from place to place. We aimed it out of Los Angeles one misty morning and sent it through a course that ran 58,000 miles through 37 states.

The time limit? Only 58 days.

A thousand miles a day!

The equivalent of 6 years' driving crammed into little more than 8 weeks!

Three times this Plymouth crossed the Rockies. Three times it wound its way up and down across the country...passing through more than 1200 cities and towns. Whipping over turnpikes...creeping through city traffic...arowing down super-highways...feeling its way through 500 miles of rutted detours. And when the drivers turned the key to end the marathon, it still looked, ran and rode like new.

This is what lasting value really means. The ability to take everything that American roads and weather can dish out—and come up grinning. Why don't you give Plymouth a test drive yourself—today? You'll see what we mean.

That's the Plymouth "track"...and just look at that route! Every possible road and weather condition. Plymouth ran every inch of that murderous route 3 times in just 58 days. What greater proof of lasting, built-in stamina!

Star of the Forward Look... Plymouth ahead for keeps!

French 'Pig Girl' Author Gets Cinderella Treatment

By TOM A. CULLEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

KENT, England — I expected to meet a teenage monster, a dead-eyed fugitive from a girls' reform school who read Proust while she fed the pigs on her father's farm.

But the girl who was ushered in looked as though she couldn't have been much more than 12. She was less than five feet tall, wore her hair cut urchin fashion, and her figure bulged in all the wrong places beneath her blue cardigan.

She was Berthe Grimault, a primitive French peasant girl, who has written two novels that are shockers. The first of these, "Beau Clown," was written when Berthe was 14, and just published in the United States.

"Beau Clown" is a story of poverty, lust, murder and lunacy set on a farm that is the mirror image of Berthe's own farm in central France. "Nothing more grotesque has appeared in years," is the Paris critics' verdict.

However, the place where Berthe and I met was neither a pig-sty, nor a reformatory. It was in the drawing room of one of Britain's most exclusive finishing schools. The Grove, near Sevenoaks, Kent (for girls from ages 17 to 21, tuition fees, $1,100).

For Berthe, who is now 17, is the subject of a Cinderella experiment that is probably unique of its kind.

The experiment is to see whether an English boarding school can turn a backward French pig-girl into a polished and poised young woman. And it isn't costing Berthe a cent, thanks to the generosity of Mrs. Muriel Orr-Ewing, the school proprietress, who 5 months ago invited Berthe to spend a year at The Grove as a free guest.

Berthe's companions these days are the sub-deb daughters of the rich and titled. She now has the run of a 300-year-old stately home in Kent, whose windows give onto lawns with ornamental lily ponds, tennis court's and a golf course nearby.

The room which she shares with one other girl is centrally heated and has its own private bath. On the farm Berthe's family of 11 share three beds; and when she bathed, it was in a muddy cattle pool.

The question is: How much of this has rubbed off after five months?

Berthe struck me as a French version of the little girl next door who climbs trees and behaves like a tomboy. She is just a nice, wholesome kid, I decided. And what was she doing here posing as the dead-end kid of French literature?

"Berthe put on 14 pounds the first six weeks she was here," Mrs. Orr-Ewing informed me. "She got horribly fat, and none of the clothing I made her fit. But now she has learned how to control her diet and has slimmed down."

The subject of these remarks smiled a smile of total incomprehension. "Her table manners were quite atrocious when she first came," Mrs. Orr-Ewing continued, "but now they are quite presentable. She still doesn't walk and sit as well as I would like her to, but it's coming," she added hopefully.

Berthe squirmed and looked as though she would like to bolt out the door.

After five months Berthe speaks almost no English, and even her French is bad, being a sort of patois.

The only time during the interview she showed real animation was in talking of the paintings she had seen in London's National Gallery. "Wonderful — I like very much," she exclaimed, breaking in to English.

Was there any particular painting she favored? "Tous," she cried, spreading her arms as if to embrace the whole of art. Then she subsided.

Berthe seems totally unaware that she is a literary celebrity, or for that matter, that her novel has even been published. Nor is she working on a new novel ("I had difficulty in persuading her to keep a diary," says Mrs. Orr-Ewing.)

Which raises the question of Berthe's literary talent. M. Elzior Fournier, the postman in the village of Jassay (pop. 100), claims that he spotted her talent for spinning fantastic yarns and persuaded her to put them down on paper.

Berthe's hard-drinking father had spent some time in a mental home, and when he came home cured he described the antics of the asylum inmates to his family. Soon she was weaving tales around lunatics.

How much of Berthe's writing is her own, and how much Fournier's? Her British publishers put it this way. "M. Fournier helped her to put her story into shape, teaching her to write as they went along," but Fournier is bolder. "With my advice and under my control she produced a new version of her novel," he says.

Whatever Berthe's share in the authorship, very little of the royalties have come her way. Most of the money has gone to pay off her father's debts, while the postman gets his share. A new bicycle is about all that Berthe has had from her books so far.

The events Berthe describes have left no trace of viciousness in the girl. "She's like a child who has been locked up in a coal cellar all her life," Mrs. Orr-Ewing observed.

"I thought at first it was a question of genius handicapped by poverty, and of helping that genius to mature," she sighed. "But now I see that it's a case of an ordinary human being who isn't full awakened."

As we talked in the elegant drawing room I found myself looking for a glass slipper on Berthe's plump foot. But no, her painted toes peeped through an ordinary sandal.

Win Will Mean 3-Way Tie

Smith-Cotton Tigers Face Last Conference Foe Friday

By Stan Jones

Friday the Smith-Cotton Tigers will face their last 1957 Central Missouri Conference opponent, the Yellowjackets of Kemper Military Academy of Boonville. If the Tigers are victorious it will mean a three-way tie for first in the CEMO conference for them with Columbia and Jefferson City.

The Yellowjackets with a season record of two wins and four losses are rated the underdogs against the Tigers with four wins and four losses. Only one Tiger loss was in conference play, however, that being to Jefferson City. The Kemper team is capable of upsets as they proved last year when they handed us a 7-7 tie.

As to size the teams are about equal with only one pound separating the average weight of the two lines. Their largest man outweighs the biggest man the Tigers expect to play, Bill McDowell, by seven pounds, McDowell tips the scales at 193 pounds.

Whether B. C. Poynter, the biggest man on the Tiger squad will play, seems doubtful. Poynter has been suffering from an injured foot received early in the season. He has high hopes of getting to play, but Coach Dow seems reluctant to chance on his receiving a second blow and will probably have him watching the game on the sidelines.

Both teams are expected to use the "T" formation, but it is not known just how the Yellowjackets run their plays.

The Tigers have one remaining game, the one that was scheduled for October 28 but was cancelled due to the flu, with Raytown. It will be Tuesday evening at 8 at Jennie Jaynes Stadium.

Kick-off time for the Kemper game is 8:00

Bears Wonder If History Will Repeat

CHICAGO — The Chicago Bears are wondering if history will repeat.

Three years ago they had four defeats, like now, then caught fire behind a Georgia rookie quarterback, Zeke Bratkowski.

He led them to four straight victories down the stretch that gave the Bears second place in the Western Division of the National Football League.

"Brat," who rejoined the club this season after military service, used sparingly since his return was turned loose against Green Bay last Sunday and the Bears won 21-14.

"Zeke got a big lift out of that game," says Coach Paddy Driscoll, "and it did a lot for the entire team. I still say a team with four defeats, and maybe even five, can win the division."

The Bears take their 3-4 record against Baltimore's 4-3 Sunday hopeful of avenging an earlier defeat by the Colts.

Bratkowski, who hit 13 out of 19 tosses for 182 yards and a touchdown in his stint against the Packers, thinks the Bears can hook up a similar winning streak of three years ago—with luck.

"The whole club is clicking now, and all we need are a few breaks," he says. "Had everything gone our way, we could be 6-1 right now."

The 200-pounder, whose home is at Danville, Ill., said it took him some time to readjust to pro football after making all-Air Force and all-service at Eglin Air Force Base in Florida.

"You come back and think everything will be the same," he said. "But you soon find out it isn't. Pro ball is just a faster, better game."

Mailman Says Woman Put the 'Bite' on Him

NEW YORK — Mailmen occasionally have unfortunate experiences with dogs, but carrier Leroy Hunter said he had the "bite" put on him by a woman.

In Felony Court yesterday, Hunt charged he was bitten on the wrist by Mrs. Gloria Rohan, 21, because he refused to hand over her relief check and put it in her mailbox in accordance with postal rules.

Mrs. Rohan's lawyer said she has false teeth and therefore it could not have been much of a bite.

Magistrate Neal P. Bottiglieri held Mrs. Rohan in $500 bail on a charge of third-degree assault.

Marion Ladewig Is Queen Of Women Bowlers

CHICAGO — Mrs. Marion Ladewig of Grand Rapids, Mich., has again been chosen bowling Queen of the Year by the Bowling Writers' Assn. of America. Anita Cantaine of Detroit was runnerup with Marge Merrick of Detroit, Sylvia Wene of Philadelphia and Stephanie Balogh of Cleveland ranked in that order.

Urges College Athletes Get 'Full Ride'

LOS ANGELES — Dr. Joseph Kaplan, UCLA's faculty representative in the Pacific Coast Conference, has recommended that college athletes be given the "full ride"—tuition, books, board and room.

Dr. Kaplan, who also is chairman of the U. S. Committee for the International Geophysical year, offered his views at a news conference following a Bruin varsity club banquet last night.

The educator endorsed in part the stand taken by Ohio State University faculty men who say a re-definition of amateurism is needed in college sports.

"I don't think that football players and other athletes should share in the gate receipts and that sort of thing," Dr. Kaplan said. "But I think they should get reasonable support for their contribution."

"I don't think an athlete should come out of college with a profit, but I also don't think he should take a loss. He should receive the essentials—board, room, books and tuition."

He suggested that representative groups of athletes and other students from Pacific Coast Conference schools might get together and formulate a set of standards.

"I'm confident their proposals would be modest and practicable. After all, the faculty people have failed to solve the problem, so why not let the students have a try?"

Dr. Kaplan called the Ohio State recommendation a move in the right direction, and added:

"I would like to see the idea picked up and developed to the extent of defining an amateur in college sports as one who comes out even when he graduates. I think a rational, reasonable approach to intercollegiate athletics would result."

Oklahoma Puts Many Records On the Line

NORMAN, Okla. — Oklahoma will put a number of records on the line when it meets Notre Dame in a nationally televised battle here Saturday — and one of them may be broken at the outset of the intersectional battle.

Coach Bud Wilkinson is rumored to have controlled the weather almost as well as he has the scores of Oklahoma's home games.

During his 10-year tenure as head coach, the Sooners have never played a home game in the rain. That's one record which may be snapped this weekend. Rain has fallen for three days and more showers are forecast through Friday.

For two days this week, the Sooners practiced in the mud, then were driven inside yesterday by rain and water on the practice field.

Coach Bud Wilkinson says the muddyfield practice may come in handy this weekend.

He admits that rain and mud hamper his team's fast-break offense, which is based largely on speed.

After the Kansas State game Nov. 2 Wilkinson pointed out the field was slippery, and indicated this may have been a factor in comparatively low score.

Oklahoma won the game 13-0 and has since thrashed the Missouri Tigers 39-14 to run its victory string to 47 straight games—longest in collegiate history.

The victory string is the most important record the Sooners are sticking on the line. Another is the string of 123 straight games without being shut out.

Typically pessimistic, Wilkinson says the Irish are liable to win.

Procrastinators Club Crowns Its '56 Queen

PHILADELPHIA — The Procrastinators Club of America, dedicated to doing-it-later, has finally got around to crowning its 1956 queen.

She's 17-year-old Beth Swinand, who, like the other club members, believes it's better to do tomorrow what you might have done today.

Lester Waas, 37-year-old head of the club, says procrastination is relaxing, healthful and leads to success in life.

SPORTS

HEADED FOR CLEVELAND—Frank Lane, right, general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, is shown moments after he received word in St. Louis Tuesday that he had been named general manager of the Cleveland Indians. At left is Bing Devine, Lane's executive assistant who has been named as Lane's successor.

Saddle Clubs Hold November State Meet Here

The Missouri State Saddle Club Association held their November meeting at Pettis County courthouse with 11 clubs represented.

Ben Terrell of Marshall presided over the meeting.

Orman S. Meador, chairman of the rules committee presented the new rules for 1958 and after a short discussion they were accepted. One very important rule was, that any horse shown through the week at the Missouri State Fair would not be eligible to show at the Missouri State Fair's Saddle Club show over the weekend.

Page Green, president of Odessa Saddle Club gave a brief report of the meeting he had attended in Kansas City during the American Royal week which concerned American saddle bred horses.

He stressed the point of having a three-gaited class as several members present were interested in this type of horse.

Former publicity director, Bill Diekroeger, gave a short talk. He also announced that saddle clubs were being formed in parts of Canada and as far south as the Gulf Coast as well as the eastern states.

A national saddle club association is being planned. Diekroeger is a member of the staff of the magazine, Western Horseman, which has a circulation of 103,000 subscribers.

Terrell announced the next state meeting would be Feb. 4 and election of officers would be held at that time.

Williams Is Named Most Valuable Player

BOSTON — Boston Red Sox slugger Ted Williams, the oldest player ever to win an American League batting title, has been named the league's Most Valuable Player by the Boston chapter of the Baseball Writers of America.

The 39-year-old outfielder, who batted .388 and won the AL slugging title with a .731 average, was selected yesterday by the Boston writers. He will be invited to be guest of honor at the chapter's annual dinner Jan. 23.

L.A. Dodgers Are Waiting For Protest

LOS ANGELES — The deadline for dropping flies in the Los Angeles Dodgers' baseball ointment is today—and citizens protesting the Chavez Ravine real estate deal say they are set to unload a whopper.

A group called the Committee to Save Chavez Ravine for the People says it has collected at least 51,787 reasons why the Dodgers may not be playing in the foreseeable future in Walter O'Malley's proposed dream stadium.

The committee said that before the 5 p. m. deadline a petition with more than the required 51,787 signatures to force a public election on the city's Chavez Ravine deal will be filed with the City Election Commission.

The petition, if valid, could force a special election within three months, or the referendum could go on the next regular election ballot in June.

In either case, Dodger President O'Malley's plans to begin construction on a 50,000-seat stadium on the 300 acres given the club by the city would be sidetracked, perhaps completely derailed.

The "citizens' committee" was organized after the City Council, by a 10-4 vote, transferred the Chavez Ravine property to the Dodgers in exchange for the 22-500-seat Wrigley Field and other considerations.

Backbone of the committee is an organization of small property owners and taxpayers.

The city clerk has 30 days to check the petitions. If there are enough names the ordinance approving the Dodger deal would automatically be held up pending an election.

Knob Noster Loses To Leeton 44 to 47

Knob Noster lost to Leeton by three points in a cage game played Tuesday night at Knob Noster. The Knob Noster B team also lost to Leeton by 14 points. The score for the varsity game was 47 to 44 and the B team score was 44 to 30.

High scorer for Knob Noster was Werneke with 15 points and second high was Wharton with 10. Underwood scored top points for Leeton with 21 and Hansen followed with 17 points.

Knob Noster will play against St. Paul's High School of Concordia at Concordia Tuesday night.

Yesterday the virus clipped Gene Filipski, and Jim Patton came up with an old-fashioned charley horse. Those two lead the club in punt and kickoff returns. Another regular defensive back, Dick Nolan, is still hospitalized with the flu.

The only defensive backs left unbedded were rookie John (Rebel) Bookman, Ed Hughes, Ed Crawford and Emlien Tunnell.

That means the defensive backfield will be thin Sunday if the ailing Giants are still on the shelf. It will also mean Tunnell, aided by Bookman, will have to run back most of the Philadelphia kicks. But that's trouble?

Back in 1953, before Patton and Filipski were ever measured for pro uniforms, Tunnell set the NFL season record for most punts returned—38 for 223 yards.

PCA Match Play Due For a Change; Would Be 72-Hole Medal

LONG BEACH, Calif. — Delegates to the national convention of the Professional Golfers Assn. of America today were expected to approve a move to change the PGA match play championship to a 72-hole medal play competition.

But while no officials would comment directly, the change to medal play might well conflict in public interest with the United States Golf Assn. open, which over the years has been dominated by the professionals but which is open to amateurs.

A PGA National Open would be restricted to professionals and under that title could well draw censure from the USGA, of which the PGA membership in convention here seems well aware. Gate receipts from the USGA Open far outshadow anything the PGA match play tourney gets year in, year out.

A vote on the switch from match to medal was expected late today.

With Jackson's right eye puffed closed at the end of the 10th, Briedbart called Carter over to view the damage and Frankie stopped it. The fight was scheduled for 12 rounds.

"I recommend that the fight be stopped," said Briedbart. Asked if he would have Jackson retire after the two consecutive batterings by Patterson and Machen, Lippe replied: "He'll have to take a long rest. Retirement is up to him."

The Hurricane, from St. Albans, N.Y., who weighed his heaviest at 201 for this one, had little to say. Asked what he thought Machen could do against Patterson, he said only, "It'd be a good fight. Who'd win? I dunno."

Jackson went down for a five count in the first round when he took a left and a right to the head. But from then on he remained upright although staggered repeatedly and wincing visibly under Machen's body attack.

"I thought my left looks to the body and head hurt him the most," Machen declared.

Patterson had knocked the Hurricane down three times before Referee Ruby Goldstein called a halt after 1:32 of the 10th in their July 29 engagement.

Despite that beating, Jackson's appearance here drew 14,107 fans to the Cow Palace. They paid a gross of $56,877.50.

Sid Flaherty, who manages Machen, said, "Our next move is up to Patterson, if he wants to fight us. If Patterson wants to fight Eddie, we're ready to talk business. If not, maybe we'll go to Europe for some bouts."

Machen Wins Over Jackson For Title Bid

SAN FRANCISCO — A title fight, low blows and possibilities of retirement formed boxing topics today after undefeated heavyweight Eddie Machen slammed and battered Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson into surrender.

The 195-pound Machen, 25, of Redding, Calif., wants the championship bout with Floyd Patterson. He has an added talking point since his televised fight with Jackson last night goes into the record as a 10th-round TKO, the same as Patterson scored over the Hurricane July 29.

Jackson and Manager Lippe Briedbart declared Eddie hit several low blows in taking his 24th straight victory. Machen said he didn't hit below the belt knowingly. Referee Frankie Carter didn't assess any penalties for low punches.

With Jackson's right eye puffed closed at the end of the 10th, Briedbart called Carter over to view the damage and Frankie stopped it. The fight was scheduled for 12 rounds.

"I recommend that the fight be stopped," said Briedbart. Asked if he would have Jackson retire after the two consecutive batterings by Patterson and Machen, Lippe replied: "He'll have to take a long rest. Retirement is up to him."

The Hurricane, from St. Albans, N.Y., who weighed his heaviest at 201 for this one, had little to say. Asked what he thought Machen could do against Patterson, he said only, "It'd be a good fight. Who'd win? I dunno."

Higley Resigns As Vets Administrator
WASHINGTON — Harvey V. Higley has resigned as veterans administrator.
President Eisenhower accepted the resignation late yesterday "with reluctance and a very real sense of loss."
Higley's letter to the President assigned no reason for his move, but said he wanted to be relieved of his post "as nearly as convenient."
From other sources it was learned that Higley told the White House in September that he wanted to go back to private life.

Big Dipper—This huge dredge, which was built for use in the Panama Canal, is scooping out a deeper channel in the Detroit River near Detroit, Mich., in preparation for the St. Lawrence Seaway. Crew members of the dredge link hands to demonstrate the size of its 22-ton bucket, which can gobble up 15 cubic yards of river bottom in one bite.

NEW YORK (AP)—Informative "public service" programming of local origin is a problem to TV stations throughout the country. Numerous viewers are interested in serious-minded programs, and stations are obligated to devote some time to "public service" shows—though no percentage of total time is prescribed by the Federal Communications Commission. But rarely is a commercial firm interested in sponsoring such programs. In Providence, R.I., station WJAR-TV has placed the problem in the capable hands of an attractive, energetic woman named Betty Adams. Word of her popular weekday morning program had long preceded her on a flying visit to New York the other day.

Her viewers—who write her from 300 to 400 letters a week—take courses in physical fitness and speedwriting. They learn about Sputnik and space travel from Air Force experts. They study the Constitution and its meaning. Recently they took a course in Spanish. Not long ago she completed a "World's Fair" series in which 40 nations sent representatives to Providence at their own expense to describe and show examples of their culture and history. Well, a large southern New England TV audience is delighted.

Station WJAR-TV is delighted. And Betty Adams, who is raising two children while helping to raise the standards of "public service" TV programming, is delighted—up to a point. She has problems such as beset everyone who enters this field of television. They go like this:

1. Her program does not have a sponsor. 2. If she had a sponsor, she couldn't expect help from educators since no educational institution would wish to imply that it endorsed a commercial product. 3. But she isn't getting much help from educators any way. 4. So she might as well have a sponsor. "We have a tremendous demand from viewers who want information, who want to be educated on a great variety of subjects," she said. "But I think that many educators are scared they can't do it. On television they don't have a captive audience as they do in the classroom."

Cagney Has An Easy Job Playing 'Tuff'

By BOB THOMAS
NEW YORK (AP)—James Cagney, flanked by two New York policemen, walked to the end of Pier 17 through a crowd of tough longshoremen.

The workers greeted him warmly, shouting comments to him. He answered them back in kind, and they were delighted. It was obvious that they accepted him as one of their kind.

Cagney was reporting for a scene in his new movie, "Never Steal Anything Small," which was filming near the Brooklyn Bridge. It's a musical satire in which he plays a tough guy who sings his way to control of a corrupt labor union.

When he did his campaign number before the rugged-looking audience on the wind-swept pier—some actors, some not—he was immensely convincing. James Cagney, ex-hooper, an actor who has earned millions, still could act the mug.

"That's what growing up in this town did for me," Jimmy said as he sat in the shelter of a truck and surveyed the skyline of New York. "Imagine me trying to play a tough guy if I hadn't been brought up in a tough part of town! Believe me, it has paid off well over the years."

Being back in the scenes of his boyhood prompted some nostalgia on his part. He talked about his early days around 79th Street on the East Side.

"Sure, the kids were tough in those days," he said. "They used blackjacks and knives then too. But there didn't seem to be the organization that there is today. We traveled in gangs, but every guy was fundamentally a free-lancer."

"Today, the kid gangs seem to have taken a note from the mobs in organizing and demanding protection money and that sort of thing. It's vicious."

After 25 years of living in California and New England, he has no yen to return to his native city.

"If you had to live in a city, this would be the place to do it," he observed. "Here you've got the best theater, the best museums, the best schools. But thank heaven I don't have to live in the city."

Mad Squirrel Eludes Dragnet of Police
BOISE, Idaho (AP)—Mayor R. E. Edlison yesterday ordered law enforcement officers to the city park. The orders were to track down and kill.

It was not a man hunt. Four persons reported they were bitten. They said it was a squirrel.

Said the mayor: "This squirrel is obviously mad."

The angered (or crazy) little thing had eluded the dragnet by nightfall.

Ordeals of Going to Work Make Businessmen Tired

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Everyone is familiar with the tired businessman, who returns home at the end of the day exhausted.

"You're working too hard," his friends tell him. "It's killing you."

But it isn't the work he does at the office that makes the tired businessman so tired. It's the stress and strains of mind and body he must undergo before he gets to the office.

It is said that former President Harry Truman prides himself on the fact he can rise, dress and be able to meet the problems of the day within 10 minutes.

The average business employee, however, isn't that efficient. Here is the schedule of our typical office hero after the alarm clock bugles him awake at 7 a.m.

Time spent cowering under covers until wife comes and drags him out—10 minutes.

Time spent with head under pillow until wife comes and drags him out—second time—10 minutes.

Time spent sitting on edge of bed, yawning, scratching and wondering why stayed up until 1 a.m., watching that 1939 movie on television—5 minutes.

Time spent doing pushups, deep knee bends, and reaching over to touch floor with knees only partly bent—30 seconds.

Time spent admiring results in bedroom mirror—5 minutes.

Time spent showering, including period spent crawling around on tiles looking for soap—4 minutes.

Time spent shaving, brushing teeth and drinking sodium bicarbonate—4 minutes.

Time spent studying face in bathroom mirror looking for signs of old age—5 minutes.

Time spent dressing and wondering why suits get tighter around stomach every year—6 minutes.

Time spent trying to get children to breakfast table—10 minutes.

Time spent waiting at breakfast table for burnt toast to arrive—5 minutes.

Time spent silently grimacing at burnt toast—30 seconds.

Time spent listening to wife explaining that, if he doesn't like way bread is toasted, he can go out in kitchen and toast his own—3 minutes.

Time spent trying to read newspaper—2 minutes.

Time spent trying to explain to wife why it is necessary for him to read at breakfast table—4 minutes.

Time spent bawling out children for dawdling over food—1 minute.

Time spent listening to children's replies—3 minutes.

Time spent listening to wife explain why if family doesn't cut down on expenses they all will end in poorhouse—5 minutes.

Time spent in answering her—none.

Time spent in bolting own food—2 minutes.

Time spent kissing wife goodbye at door—1 second.

Time spent running to bus stop—2 minutes.

Time spent waiting in line to get on bus—6 minutes.

Time spent fighting three stronger, younger men for seat on bus—5 minutes.

Time spent guiltily trying to avoid gaze of standing middle-aged lady so won't have to get up and give her his seat—25 minutes.

Time spent explaining to boss reasons why has to show up 10 minutes late every morning, when every other man in office can make it by 9 o'clock sharp—5 minutes.

It is now 9:15, and our hero is so worn out and upset he has to sneak down to drugstore counter for second bicarbonate of soda.

Our tired businessman is already so tired, merely from the ordeal of getting to work, that he will have to loaf on the job all day merely to get up enough strength to make the long voyage home at dusk.

Judge Gratefully Follows Suggestion Of Loud Defendant
PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Maricopa County (Phoenix) Superior Court Judge Fred J. Hyder warned the defendant in an arson trial yesterday to keep silent.

But James Van de la Bogart, 65, of Mesa, Ariz., continued to interrupt court proceedings with loud cries of "I'm being railroaded. I demand my constitutional rights."

Judge Hyder issued another warning. Van de la Bogart yelled back. "Why don't you gag me?"

Judge Hyder answered by instructing Sheriff's Deputy Kenneth Love to put a dish towel over the defendant's mouth.

The gag stayed there until a jury was selected.

Doesn't Want His Own Show

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—In a season when every singer wants his own television program—and nearly everyone has a show—Tony Bennett is an exception. He doesn't want his own program—yet.

All jazzophiles know Bennett. Hit records, a popular night club act, frequent guest appearances on TV—Bennett's away at the top in his field. But even a jazz-phobe would enjoy meeting him. He's a pleasant, modest, articulate guy who rather reminds you of Perry Como before absolutely everybody knew Como.

Here's what we mean: Three of Bennett's friends, seated around him the other day, were telling a fellow that Bennett had turned down several offers for his own show.

"Look, don't give the impression that the networks were clubbing each other over the head to get me," Bennett said. "There was an opportunity and if I'd tried hard for it maybe I'd have gotten it, but I didn't want my own show."

That's interesting. Why not? "I'm not ready for it yet, I feel," Bennett said. "I have a lot to learn. You might say I'm trying to study television, and there's no better opportunity to do that than appearing in guest spots."

Sunday evening, for example, he will appear on the Ed Sullivan Show. Last Sunday he appeared on the Steve Allen Show. He's been a frequent Como guest and has—and will—appear on many another variety program.

"It may be two or three years before I'm ready for my own show," Bennett said. "I don't want to go on just as a name after a network has given me something to do. That just doesn't work out."

Imported Cookware Wins Favor for Color, Utility

Gaily decorated cooking utensils, both imported and domestic, add a continental touch to kitchens. Proper care and storage keep them looking their best. This young homemaker uses a soft sponge, well soaked with soap, to erase char marks from the bottom of the white enamelware skillet. The wooden fork is used to scrape food residue from the inside.

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

Colorful imported utensils are bringing the spice of an international bazaar to the American kitchen. Once regarded as pretty little gift items, or something only an experienced gourmet might use, these utensils have assumed an important practical and decorative place on the family table.

Their succulent contents borrowed from the worldwide recipe file are no strangers to our daily menus. The excellent adaptations of favorite foreign recipes encourage even the not-so-adventurous cook to vary meals with the nutritious, low cost and delicious mainstays of homemakers abroad.

Imported cookware, and the domestic copies, are as varied as the food. These are not the pots and pans you scrub up and stack out of sight. They lend themselves to open storage on hooks or shelves for two reasons.

One is to avoid chipping or cracking, and second because they are handsome to look at. Some of the cookware requires and deserves special care. LeCruset ware, identified by its bright orange or red color, is made in France by coating cast iron utensils with a heavy, hard quartz glaze and will not chip unless banged severely.

These pots and pans usually come clean by washing with hot suds and rinsing. However, if encrusted with food residue, never use an abrasive or scrape with metal. Instead scrape lightly with a wooden spoon or fork.

Some other varieties of porcelain-enameled cast iron utensils are available in pretty colors, sometimes decorated with peasant designs of the country of origin. One typical variety is Husqvarna ware from Sweden, another is Trianon ware from Belgium. Any of the lighter enamel finishes should be handled and stored carefully to prevent chipping.

With earthenware casseroles, stewpots, ramekins and au gratin dishes, the type of product determines the washing care. The Bazaar Francais, a famed New York shop specializing in imported cookery equipment, explains that earthenware made in Valluris, France, has a hard inside glaze.

This type can be soaked overnight if necessary to remove baked on food. But porous Mexican-type pottery should not be soaked. Always wash and rinse pottery in water of the same temperature—medium hot is advised. Sudden temperature changes may cause cracking or "crazing." Use a wooden spoon or paddle for scraping.

Metal and stoneware molds will require close attention. Scrub with a sponge and use a pipe cleaner or similar soft material to coax every bit of food from intricate patterns or "veinings."

Metal molds can be washed in hot water. Stoneware molds should be washed in lukewarm suds and rinses and it's a good idea to line the sink with a rubber pad or dish towel to prevent breakage.

Every homemaker knows the importance of a clean coffee pot if the brew is to taste right and Espresso coffee pots are no exception. Wash thoroughly after each use, rinse and wipe and allow the parts to air before reassembling.

Whether to wash woodenware or not is an old argument that has its partisans on both sides. The middle-of-the-road advice I get is that if a wooden salad bowl is absorbing undesirable odors or flavors, wash quickly with a well-lathered dishcloth, rinse quickly under lukewarm running water and wipe promptly with a dry towel. Don't store wooden bowls near heat.

Modern Teenager Still Honors Parents; Would Support Them

By EUGENE GILBERT

Have you heard anyone say that modern young people have not the love and respect for their parents that was common a generation or two ago?

It's odd if you haven't because criticisms of that sort are as common today as they were in the last century and for hundreds of years before that.

To pin down the truth or falsity, we put some leading questions recently to 600 youngsters all over the country. It would be interesting to find out what answers middle-aged people would give to the same questions about their parents.

These questions were toughies—not ones that could be answered with platitudinous generalities. Instead they got down to what seemed to us the nub of the matter:

Are today's youngsters willing to support their parents in their old age? Do they stand ready even to take their aged parents into their own homes?

The answers were as heartening as anything we have come up with in quite a while.

Not only are these representative teenagers willing to honor their fathers and mothers, but practically all are ready and willing to support their parents if they have to. And our experience is that the answers given by a carefully selected sample such as this are truly representative of the country as a whole.

The comments of two teen-aged girls just about summed up majority thinking on the subject.

"I feel that after all they've done for me, I could never repay them and anything I could do for them would be done willingly and with pleasure," said Judy Glas of New Orleans.

"They took care of me in my youth and I should be more than happy to take care of them in their waning years," added Carole Sue Thorpe of Alpha, Mich.

Comments from a 3 per cent minority indicated they too would help support the old folks in most cases but reluctantly.

"I would do so in an emergency," said an Arkansas girl.

"I'd sure hate to have to take care of them," said a Berkeley, Calif., boy. "But I guess I would if necessary."

Frank, a Los Angeles youth, balanced carefully on the fence with his comment:

"I don't think my parents would ever ask me to do it."

In some families of more than one child, the youngsters were ready to help but they felt the contributions should be shared.

"I would do it because I would feel it half my responsibility as I'm sure my brother would help," said an Alexander City, Ala., girl.

"I think my brothers and sisters would share in taking care of our parents," a Brockton, Mass., boy told us.

Nine out of ten teen-agers think it's only fair that they be asked to help out their parents if need be, but only about half would like to have their dependent parents live in their homes. Forty-four per cent said it would be better if they did not.

"My parents are always welcome into my home, whether it be for a weekend or forever," said Mrs. Janice Schwartz of Baltimore.

"My mother would be welcome at our home or my dad but not both," a state of Washington girl noted. "If possible they should live alone, but close to us."

"I would not like to have them in my home and would complain a great deal, but I'd do it," added a Cincinnati girl.

Of those who would prefer to have their folks live elsewhere, nine out of ten youngsters thought a home of their own would be best. Only one in ten favored an old age home.

"I just wouldn't want my parents to live in an old age home," said Phillip Gallagher of Savannah, Ga., speaking flatly for the majority.

"I love my parents very much," said Frances Ricketts of Castellon, N.D. "I would never force them to live any place they didn't choose."

About two out of three teen-agers told us they expect to support their parents in old age. The rest feel they will have to provide at least some help.

And it is interesting to note, 99 per cent of the young men and women said they have given some thought to the subject, an amazingly high percentage.

The girl from Lombard, Ill., who said: "I don't know, I never thought about it before," was definitely in the minority.

Fellowship Supper At Baptist Church

The Circle met at the Houstonia Baptist parsonage Monday night with five present. The program was "Helping Youth to Answer God's Call." Mrs. Lloyd Schouten was program leader. Those assisting were Mrs. James Eads, Mrs. Ernie Smith and Mrs. Glen Hedg-peth.

The Fellowship supper was held at the Youth Center Tuesday night. The church has rented the Martin store building and will use it for a Youth Center. Rev. W. D. Baker of Jefferson City is assisting Rev. James Eads in securing pledges for the new church building.

Squash Pie Top Holiday Offering

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

For an old-fashioned Thanksgiving offering, you might like to make one of your holiday pies of squash. For this recipe, we steam butternut squash, combine it with crushed pineapple and spices and turn it into a deep dish. A top crust of rich French pie pastry is arranged over the top, and leaves of the pastry — cut out with a pastry wheel — further embellish it.

DEEP-DISH SQUASH PIE

Ingredients: 2 medium-sized (2½ pounds) butternut squash, 1 cup light brown sugar (firmly packed), ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon nutmeg, 1 can (9 ounces) crushed pineapple, grated rind and juice of ½ lemon, 1 tablespoon butter or margarine, French Pie Pastry.

Method: Cut the squash into halves and discard seeds; pare off skin with swivel-blade vegetable peeler. Place squash in a perforated basket (or colander) in a kettle over gently bubbling water (to create steam); cover kettle and steam until just about tender, about 30 minutes. Remove squash and slice about ¼-inch thick, then dice into pieces that are about ¾-inch long. Butter a baking dish — a heat resistant glass dish that is 8½ by 8½ by 2 inches (holding 2 quarts) is fine. Mix brown sugar, salt, cinnamon and nutmeg; drain pineapple (there should be ½ cup juice) and add the drained pineapple plus ¼ cup of the pineapple juice, the grated lemon rind and lemon juice to the sugar mixture.

Arrange squash in layers in baking dish, sprinkling each layer with the pineapple mixture. Dot with butter. Roll out French Pie Pastry so that it is about ¼ inch thick and about 1½ inches larger than the diameter of the backing dish. Arrange pastry lightly over squash and trim edges, leaving ½-inch overhanging. Moisten rim of dish, turn overhanging edge of pastry under and press it onto rim. Flute or crimp edges and cut ample slits in pastry for steam to escape. Cut leaves, with a pastry wheel, from leftover pastry and arrange decoratively around edge of crust. Bake in a hot (400 degrees) oven for 50 minutes.

FRENCH PIE PASTRY
Ingredients: 2¼ cups sifted flour, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ cup golden shortening, 2 egg yolks, 3 tablespoons water.

Method: Stir flour, sugar and salt together in a mixing bowl. Add golden shortening and egg yolks; cut in with a pastry blender until fat particles are fine. Sprinkle water, 1 tablespoon at a time, over mixture; toss lightly with a fork until all flour is moistened. Gather dough into a ball and roll out on prepared pastry cloth. Use as directed in recipe for Deep-Dish Squash Pie. If any pastry is leftover, it's fine to use for small turnovers with a filling of sugar, spices and nutmeats.

Watauga Constitution
First constitution adopted in America was that of the Watauga Settlement, a group of 16 families from Wake County, N.C., who migrated west to the Alleghenies in 1770.

A light dusting of powdered sugar will keep a freshly baked cake from sticking to its plate.

The rabbit is not a true rodent, but a lagomorph, because it has two sets of upper front teeth, one behind the other, while a rodent has a single set.

HOLIDAY PIE: A rich French crust, adorned by leaves cut with a pastry wheel, adds a zestful tang to this old-fashioned Thanksgiving squash pie.

Method: Cut the squash into halves and discard seeds; pare off skin with swivel-blade vegetable peeler. Place squash in a perforated basket (or colander) in a kettle over gently bubbling water (to create steam); cover kettle and steam until just about tender, about 30 minutes. Remove squash and slice about ¼-inch thick, then dice into pieces that are about ¾-inch long. Butter a baking dish — a heat resistant glass dish that is 8½ by 8½ by 2 inches (holding 2 quarts) is fine. Mix brown sugar, salt, cinnamon and nutmeg; drain pineapple (there should be ½ cup juice) and add the drained pineapple plus ¼ cup of the pineapple juice, the grated lemon rind and lemon juice to the sugar mixture.

Arrange squash in layers in baking dish, sprinkling each layer with the pineapple mixture. Dot with butter. Roll out French Pie Pastry so that it is about ¼ inch thick and about 1½ inches larger than the diameter of the backing dish. Arrange pastry lightly over squash and trim edges, leaving ½-inch overhanging. Moisten rim of dish, turn overhanging edge of pastry under and press it onto rim. Flute or crimp edges and cut ample slits in pastry for steam to escape. Cut leaves, with a pastry wheel, from leftover pastry and arrange decoratively around edge of crust. Bake in a hot (400 degrees) oven for 50 minutes.

Movie Star Marlon Brando Searches For His Life Role

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Marlon Brando at 32 a figure of world recognition, is an actor in search of his life role.

He has been phenomenally successful. He says this about the impact of success on him:

"I have not been so impressed so much by how I have changed as I have been by other people's attitudes toward me."

Brando is a full-lipped, short-haired, wide-hipped man who in a few short years has become perhaps the most acclaimed actor since John Barrymore, gifted with a talent as recognized among fellow actors as by the public.

In his latest film, he plays a young American jet flier who discovers, for him at least, that it is better to marry the Japanese girl he loves than to leave her behind. He is a Southerner. The theme of the film is how love can rise above race prejudice.

The picture is based on the novel by James Michener. There are rumors around that Brando himself may make a million dollars from the film.

He says, aside from money, that Hollywood has done itself and America a disservice because too often it is potentially the best possible instrument of communication with foreign people—but has failed to communicate.

"It behooves us to do what we can to improve our relations with other people who, in a short time, we may find our lives interdependent with," he said.

After an overseas stint during which he made two pictures in Japan and toured Southeast Asia, Brando feels that people in those areas judge America by its movies and that the movies, by more realistic dramas about world problems and prejudices, can improve mutual understanding and fare well also at the box office.

Brando himself has made one kind of adjustment to fame. "I have given up stating the pros and cons about myself," he said. "I'd just as soon let people come to their own conclusions—and let it go at that."

Make Plans To Sell Stock For Buildings

A meeting of a part of the retail merchants division and the industrial division of the Chamber of Commerce was held Monday afternoon to make plans to sell stock for the necessary funds to build buildings for new industries in Sedalia, and a meeting of the remainder of the retail division will be held later with the industrial committee.

This project is under the chairmanship of Bob Wall, general chairman of the retail division. The retail division is assisting the industrial division in contacting retail business firms, manufacturers and business and professional people in an effort to raise $300,000 in the sale of straight stock over a period of two years.

This move to secure funds to finance buildings for industries is necessary because of the intense competition offered by other cities, many of which have also set up corporations that have already subscribed the amount needed and have buildings available. The neighboring town of Marshall has raised $50,000 in cash and has another $30,000 in pledges and Chilli-cothe has raised and has available $120,000 in cash.

This type of operation of buildings on lease-purchase basis has grown substantially over the past several years that most progressive cities have funds available for this purpose. Such a fund, in addition to Sedalia's natural advantages, should mean real progress in the future of the town, the division believes.

As soon as the corporation is organized the present officers will resign and the total of 11 directors will elect new officers.

The committee, under Bob Wall, will begin an immediate concentrated effort to raise quickly the necessary funds for the building of Sedalia's new industry, Precision Engineering Co., and other buildings for more industries which the industrial committee believes they may have some chance of obtaining, provided they have buildings to offer on a lease-purchase basis.

Members of the retail committee working on the project who will be calling on business and professional people, business firms and manufacturing companies will be: Cline Cain, James Van Wagner, Jr., Ray McLain, William Schien, Don Weller, Phillip McLaughlin, Paul Schroeder, Jess Brown, W. C. Askew, Robert M. Overstreet, Glenn Lewis, Richard Morgan, Bill Greer, Everett Stevenson, R. B. Vincent, John Welch, A. W. Haller, A. W. Klang, Lloyd Phillips, George T. Lockett, W. E. Bingham and Julius Stohr.

Anyone interested in the future of the town and its progress who would like to secure stock may contact any of the committee or call the Chamber of Commerce office.

Clock Centers
Clock and watch manufacturing still is concentrated in Connecticut and Massachusetts, original centers of production in the United States.

Brando today is a pleasant, wary, self-guarded, unsure, impulsive, multimillion-dollar property still exploring his moat.

Asked how success had affected his life, he said:

"It's a dangerous position to be in, from the standpoint of maintaining a sensible perspective on yourself in relation to other people."

"It grows like coral does. You don't see it until the tide of circumstances goes out and reveals a whole network."

"I think I have learned, as a result of being successful, how frighteningly important it is to most people to be regarded as successful. Not many people care about your growth, or lack of it, as a person."

"People hate you for no other reason than that you are successful, and they like you for no other reason."

Accident Toll Shows Sharp Drop in 1957

Deaths by accident show a sharp decline in 1957 on Missouri streets and highways.

The death toll in automobile accidents for the first ten months of 1957 are over 110 less than recorded in the same months of 1956, but the Missouri Highway Patrol reports a heavy increase in recorded rural traffic accidents during the same period.

Capt. John A. Berglund, Patrol safety officer said today, "At first glance the decrease of over 100 lives by highway accidents in 1957 would indicate that Missouri drivers are becoming more aware of danger and are taking greater precautions, but we must not allow this lower fatality record to lull us into a false sense of security."

"The rising accident rate is evidence that carelessness and recklessness is still prevailing on our highway," he said, "and anytime there is an accident, death is always a possibility."

There are many factors to be considered when comparing the fewer deaths with the rising accident rate. Each day sees hundreds of additional drivers and automobiles on the road, increasing the chances for accidents to occur if all drivers are not careful.

The two month old Missouri speed law and the publicity it received prior to passage had a slowing effect on drivers, helping in part to lower the death rate in accidents, but it has not lowered the number of accidents.

"We are riding in sturdier, safer built automobiles on better engineered and constructed highways," Capt. Berglund said, "and it would seem that the accident rate as well as the death rate would decrease but we find the reverse to be true."

If the present downward trend in traffic deaths is to continue we must fight the alarming rise in accidents with everything at our command.

Good traffic laws strictly enforced, safer automobiles and better constructed highways help, but the drivers must learn that carelessness and reckless driving and the disregard of traffic regulations are the reasons for this problem. Improved driving habits is the final solution.

Buffet Style Is Ideal For a Big Meal

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

After giving many Thanksgiving dinners, there is one serving procedure we can recommend if the menu is to be a traditional one.

When there is a large family plus guests, and no outside help, we find that using a combination buffet and sit-down service is convenient.

For this we set places around the dining table (extended, of course) and arrange the centerpiece. In our house this is always a blue milk-glass compote of fresh fruit that never fails to include persimmons and grapes; the compote is surrounded by blue milk-glass egg cups—small ends up—holding tall tapers. On the table, too, go matching blue dishes of cranberry sauce and other relishes, trays of crisp hard rolls and butter pats.

The main course is served from a separate buffet. This means that the bird—after his rich brown glory has been properly admired—is carved and arranged on an electric platter. The stuffing is spooned into a chafing dish to keep hot and the vegetables are served in covered dishes.

Everyone goes to the buffet, helps himself and then sits down at the large table on which there are place cards. One member of the family usually takes it on himself to look after those who want second helpings. Another member of the family eventually clears away the main course dishes and brings on the dessert which is cut and served at the table.

As part of this plan, we serve our first course in the living room, whether it is a before-dinner drink and hors d'oeuvre or soup or both. Then glasses and plates are cleared away before we all enjoy the bird and trimmings.

TURKEY TALK

If you use a bread stuffing, we can't over-emphasize the importance of packing it into the bird lightly. This way the dressing has its best chance to taste fluffy and delicious. Any of the stuffing that won't fit into body and neck cavities may be baked in a separate dish and moistened with turkey gravy.

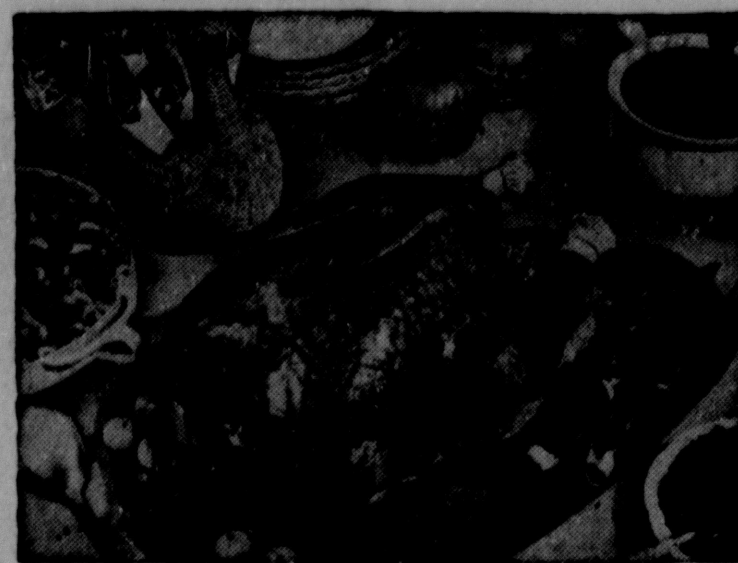

Stuff your bird just before roasting.

Allow two to four hours for cooking the turkey giblets. Cover them with water and add salt, pepper, corns, celery tops, a sliced carrot, and onion stuck with whole cloves and a bay leaf. One cook we know always saves the stem ends cut from fresh tomatoes and adds these, too. The strained stock adds a great deal to gravy or may be used (instead of other liquid) in making the turkey stuffing.

Don't make the turkey gravy pasty and thick; if more than 2 cups of gravy is to be made, use no more than 2 tablespoons of flour per cup of liquid. If, after using these amounts, the gravy is too thick, gradually stir in more liquid.

Allow the roasted bird to stand 20 minutes before carving so the meat will absorb juices and be easy to slice.

BIRD OF THE DAY: A rich brown turkey can form the centerpiece for a Thanksgiving dinner buffet. It's ideal when there are many guests and no outside help.

Our Changed World

Since Oct. 4, when the Russians launched their first man-made satellite, we in the United States have been living in a changed world.

The changes are of two kinds, and they interlock.

One is strategic. The nuclear stalemate between the Soviet Union and the West no longer prevails. Russia's demonstrated advances in long-range missiles give it an edge in the world power struggle, despite our many continuing superiorities.

The second is political. Whatever the true material and military balance between the United States and Russia, much of the world today believes not only that we have lost our critical margin of supremacy but that we may be driven to the limit ever to maintain it consistently again.

On the strategic level, our course is simple but extraordinarily difficult. We must catch and pass the Russians in the field of the decisive weapons. Until we do we are not safe.

In the political realm our task is immensely more complex. For even if we achieve our strategic goals, we can have no assurance that the world will look to us again for leadership in the great quests of peace and justice.

Russia's scientific triumphs, whether transitory or not, have planted new and deeper fears in the hearts of millions in free lands—neutral, uncommitted, even some allied with us.

These fears, of death by radiation, of annihilation by the colossal force of nuclear power, are understandable. We all have them.

We cannot hope to eradicate these perfectly human tremors. Men like to live, and we are unlikely to persuade any of them that the prospect of unnatural death is a good thing.

But all who cherish liberty know there is something worse than such a death. That is the death in life which bears the name tyranny.

Somehow we must win millions more of the world's troubled peoples to a realization of that cardinal fact. To accomplish this, we must labor as we never have before to give the world the true measure of freedom as we have known it—and the true gauge of tyrannical communism at the Soviet Union and its enslaved or deluded followers practice it.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Sherman Adams Likely Next to Go

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Don't be surprised if still another member of the famed "Eisenhower team" steps out of harness in the not too distant future. He is "assistant president" Sherman Adams, one of the most powerful men in Washington.

Adams is powerful because of Eisenhower's absence and delegation of authority. As a result, relations with Congress, contacts with every agency of government except the State Department operate through Adams.

Every cabinet member except John Foster Dulles is asked to stop in Adams' office after a talk with the President and dictate a memo regarding the points he took up with Ike and what was agreed to. For, in the long run, it's Adams who carries out any commitments made by the President—or in some cases reverses presidential commitments.

The top assistant to any president is important, but never in the years I have covered Washington has any man been given such leeway in the White House as the dry, efficient, square-dancing ex-governor of New Hampshire.

However, Adams is now being made the scapegoat for missile-satellite failures, has rubbed Vice President Nixon the wrong way, and has pulled wires wholesale in the independent agencies. If the Moulder watchdog committee ever gets the files from these commissions, supposed to be quasi-judicial, independent agencies, it will be seen that, instead of answering the will of the people, they have been answering the will of Sherman Adams.

So, along with other members of the palace guard dominating the Washington scene for five years, the tight-lipped, efficient, square-dancing assistant president is expected to leave Washington quietly for the pine-forested hills of New Hampshire.

Note—It is rumored around the White House that Alger Chapman, a Dewey partner, will replace Adams. When contacted by this column, Chapman said no one around the White House had talked to him.

White House Secrets

Edward N. Gadsby, the Boston lawyer who now heads the Securities and Exchange Commission, doesn't like to be investigated by Congress. His job is to investigate Wall Street, to see whether it's on the up-and-up. But he just doesn't like having Congress investigate him to see whether his commission's on the up-and-up.

When the Moulder committee tried to ascertain whether SEC commissioners had received any favors from corporations they are supposed to regulate, chairman Gadsby really reared back on his back by dignity.

Joe Conlon, investigator for the Moulder watchdog committee, had previously asked SEC commissioners for a list of all correspondence between the SEC and the White House and with members of Congress.

He was looking, among other things, for the hand that rocks the SEC cradle — Sherman Adams. For in Washington it's said: "The Adams hand that rocks the cradle is mightier than the Eisenhower hand that wields the sword."

"May I ask you sir, whether you prepared such a list?" Conlon asked.

"No," shrugged Gadsby.

"Do you intend to prepare such a list?" asked Conlon.

"No," said Gadsby.

Noticing a stenographer busily taking notes, Conlon demanded: "Is there a transcript of this meeting being taken?"

Gadsby replied "No," and the stenographer abruptly stopped writing.

"If there is," continued Conlon, "I would like a copy of the remarks made."

"There is no stenographer," repeated the SEC boss.

MINNEAPOLIS TRIBUNE: Heartening Economics. Now and then we encounter heartening evidence that the spirit of adventure is not dead. That something can come from practically nothing if enough elbow grease, enterprise and imagination are applied, and that the male has no monopoly on business sagacity.

Such evidence came to our attention the other day in a Wall Street Journal story from Oklahoma City. There 27 housewives and career girls have established a burgeoning business by making and merchandising braided rugs, and they did it without benefit of much male aid.

All they got from their husbands or any other men was a little advice, "and we did not always follow the advice," said the company president.

No great outlay of capital was necessary. The company has no factory or mill. Instead its rugs, of specially dyed Australian wool, are braided by housewives working parttime in their homes. One woman is reported to have made $3000 last year.

Who says our economic frontiers have vanished and that bigness is now an economic necessity?

"Then may we have a stenographer?" suggested Conlon. "I would like a stenographer."

"We don't provide that sort of thing," barked Gadsby.

"With an appropriation of $300,000, I think they can provide their own stenographer," broke in SEC counsel Dan McCauley.

"Perhaps we should adjourn until I can get a stenographer, and we can meet tomorrow," offered Conlon.

"I don't know whether the commission will be willing to meet you tomorrow," snorted Gadsby.

"The commission is not going to submit to an inquisition."

Still No Steno

The House investigator went on with his questioning. Soon the stenographer started writing again.

"Sir," interrupted Conlon impatiently, "are notes being taken of this meeting?"

Gadsby signaled the girl to stop writing.

"No," he replied again.

Finally, Conlon requested permission to examine the commissioners' official files.

"You're not going to see the letters to my wife!" bristled Gadsby.

"I don't want to see the letters to my wife," patiently explained the investigator. "I would like to see your correspondence to the executive and Congress relating to cases."

"You're not going to see my files!" repeated the SEC chairman. "I'm not going to show you anything!"

"Well, sir, what in your statutes gives you more right to withhold information than the CAB?" Conlon inquired.

"I'm not going to answer that!" snapped Gadsby. That ended the meeting.

Note: Gadsby apparently figured he could get away with defying the committee because of his close friendship with the committee's senior Republican, Congressman John Heslton of Massachusetts. The two were roommates at Amherst.

Definitive Dulles

John Foster Dulles, Secretary of State, says making friends is not the job of the State Department. In a recent hearing of the House Appropriations Committee, the Secretary replied to Representative Winfield K. Denton of Indiana, in no uncertain terms when discussing "soft loans" or long-term loans to a foreign country on a friendship basis.

The Secretary replied: "You say the purpose of the State Department is to make friends. Let me say this: Not for one minute do I think that the purpose of the State Department is to make friends. The purpose of the State Department is to look out for the interests of the United States. Whether we make friends or not I do not care. We are doing these things because it will serve the interests of the United States. . . . If the making of loans saves a country from communism, a people, an area, the loss of which to communism would be bad for the United States, I do not care whether they like us or hate us, we will have accomplished our purpose."

Th Secretary put it on the line.

Mr. Gluck From Kentuck

The new ambassador to Ceylon, Maxwell H. Gluck, a New York business man, was born in Texas, grew up in Ohio and Pennsylvania, but when it came to sponsors for his new post, he had to corral his friends in Kentucky where he owns the Elendordf stables near Lexington, Kentucky.

It is obvious that Mr. Gluck is wealthy and a good administrator. He contributed a large amount to the recent GOP presidential campaign. Let's hope what he does not know about Ceylon is not typical of other ambassadorial appointees about the nations to which they have been assigned.

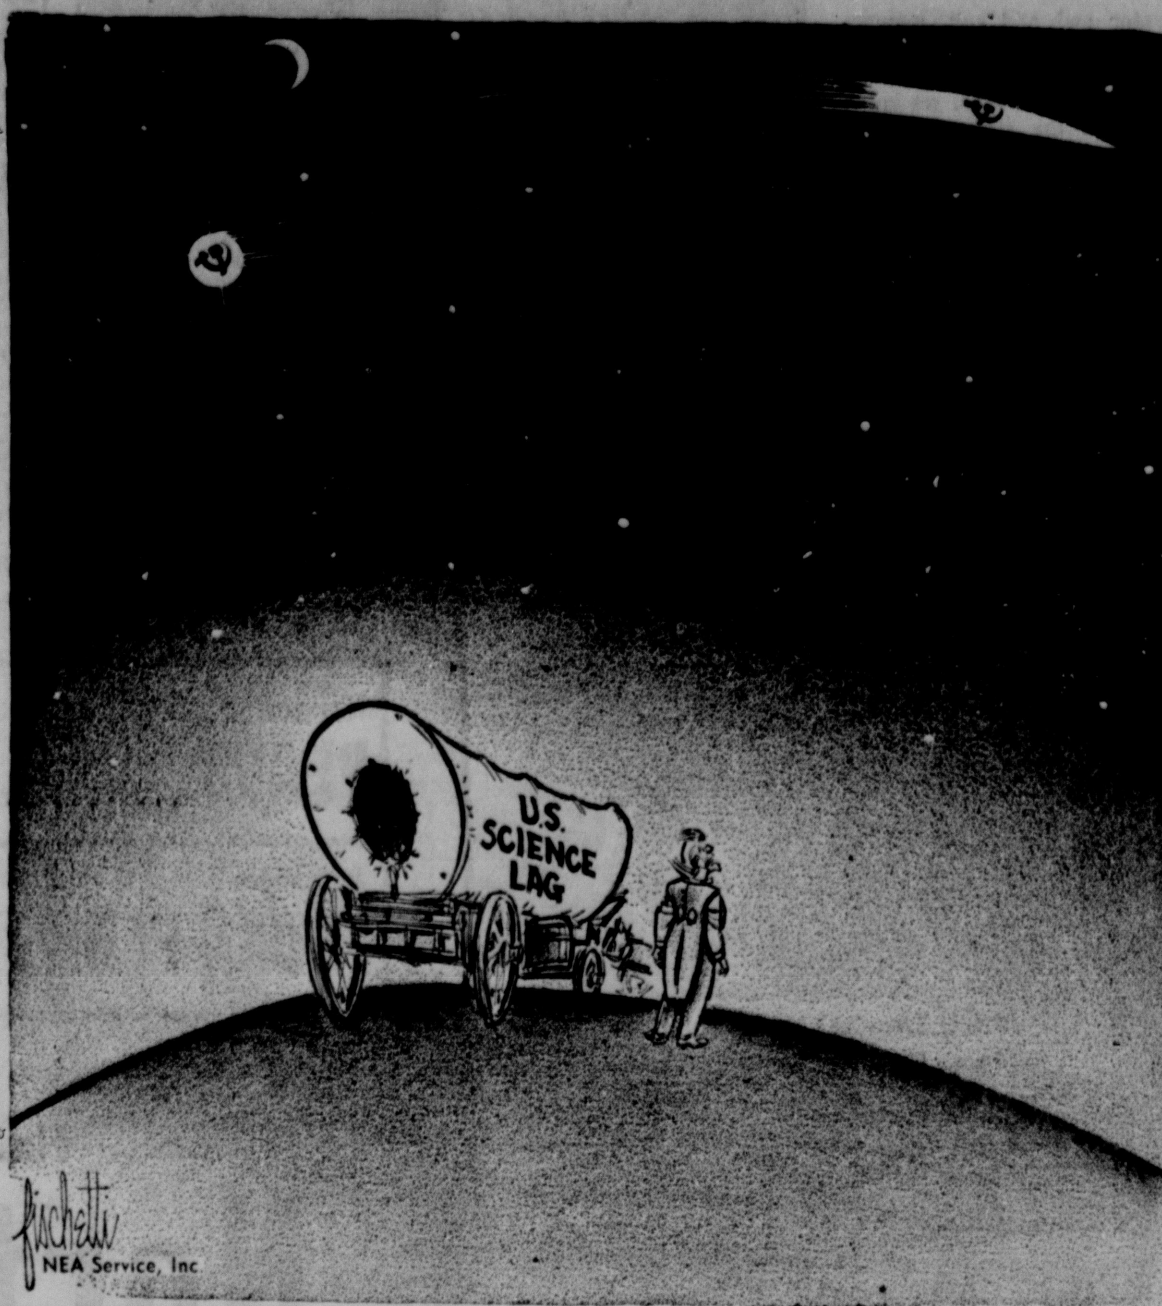

Perhaps the criticism that has been made of the President's ambassadorial appointments is unjust. But we still do not have enough men trained for ministerial and ambassadorial posts. The President is forced to pick loyal friends, who can help pay their way on "expensive" posts—but it would certainly help if they knew something about the country to which they are being sent, speak the language of that country and be prepared to meet the rulers and dignitaries in the new post in the correct manner.

Thought For Today

Blessings are upon the head of the just: but violence covereth the mouth of the wicked? —Proverbs 10:6.

Truth is Justice's handmaid; freedom is its child, peace is its companion; safety walks in its steps; victory follows in its train; it is the brightest emanation from the gospel; it is an attribute of God.—Sidney Smith.

An Old Pioneer and a New Frontier

The World Today

Administration Seems to Have Napped

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst WASHINGTON (AP)—The administration—judging from President Eisenhower's two nationwide talks—was caught napping by the Russians.

Either that, or it needed two

Sputniks to get it moving.

For weeks the administration had been working on the budget

—the cost of running the country

—which he will present to Congress in January.

There had been no talk of increased spending for defense or of a rush in missile and satellite development.

Then the Russians fired their

Sputniks, ample testimony to the amazing progress they have made in satellites, in rockets to propel

them, and in the industrial ability to produce them.

Eisenhower took to the air a week ago to reassure the country

it was in no immediate danger.

But as evidence of his realization of the need for speed, he appointed a special assistant to push scientific, satellite and missile development.

And in his nationwide talk last night he called for heavier spending on defense. How much? He didn't say. Will taxes have to go up in 1958? He didn't say. One thing seems sure: they won't be coming down.

He talked of the need — as at least part of the means for meeting increased defense costs — for cutting down on the spending on domestic programs.

If he was vague on costs, it's understandable. His administration presumably was at work on a pre-Sputnik kind of budget but now, after the Sputniks, is in a scramble to revise its thinking.

Between now and the time the budget finally is unveiled before Congress, this country may be treated to a campaign of conditioning to get it ready for the spending ahead.

And since the whole country was startled by the Sputniks—and members of Congress already are talking of willingness to increase defense spending—the administration shouldn't have much trouble selling its program.

Yesterday, a few hours before Eisenhower talked, Secretary of Commerce Weeks did a missionary job for the administration on spending.

Weeks indicated in a speech that Eisenhower—when he presents his budget — will call for increased military and foreign aid spending while cutting down on civilian programs.

He said: "The emphasis now is on less butter and more guns."

Eisenhower and his administration weren't putting the emphasis on less butter and more guns before the Sputniks.

Senator John Kennedy Puts Himself In Labor's Corner

By PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Young Sen. John F. Kennedy has now put himself squarely in union labor's corner, beyond any doubt.

He is for extending minimum wage law coverage to another six million American workers.

He thinks social security benefits should be increased to cover health needs for older citizens.

He wants unemployment insurance minimum payments raised to cover one half of the working wage.

He favors federal assistance to communities having surplus labor supplies, through supplementary unemployment insurance compensation and through loans to areas suffering from depression for two years or more.

He says there should be a four-year federal plan to aid education. If the federal government can spend billions to build new roads, it should also build new schools.

In addition to all this he backs a broad program of further government aids for housing, slum clearance, small business and long-range development of cheaper atomic power.

"We recognize all these problems as existing," Senator Kennedy told the AFL-CIO Industrial Union's convention in Washington. "To get a progressive program of this kind enacted should be the task of Congress through 1960."

Kennedy is a candidate for reelection to the Senate in 1958. In 1960 it is generally conceded he will be a front-running candidate for Democratic nominee as president or vice president. The platform he will run on for election to any or all of these offices he has now spelled out in detail.

"It's wrong to think that all the battles of the 1930's have been won," he declares. "It's wrong to think that there is no difference between the two major parties on these issues."

As chairman of the Senate labor legislation subcommittee, it is Kennedy's job to try to get action on all these proposals. But he recites a long record of Republican opposition.

There are seven Democrats and six Republicans in the full Senate Labor committee. On any labor legislation reform, one of the Democrats is apt to vote with the Republicans. But it is never possible to get one of the Republicans to vote with the Democrats to secure committee approval.

Senator Kennedy says he has grown weary of charges of Republican Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell that failure to pass any labor legislation is the fault of the Democrats.

"If Secretary Mitchell will get us the support of just one Republican, we can get the bill to extend minimum wage coverage to six million Americans out of committee."

"If Secretary Mitchell will get us just one-third of the Republican vote, we can pass the bill to give assistance to surplus labor areas," Kennedy challenges.

The Massachusetts senator admits there is grave danger that disclosures before the McClellan committee investigating labor racketeers will be seized upon as an excuse for restrictive labor legislation next year.

But he declares there has been no indication that what Dave Beck did would have been prevented by a right-to-work law, or that what Jimmy Hoffa did would have been prevented by putting labor unions under anti-trust law regulation.

In an obvious reference to California's William F. Knawland, Kennedy declared that "one western senator" has been advocating both of these old proposals, under a new excuse.

Senator Kennedy warned the 400 delegates to the I.U.D. convention that they must expect some new labor regulation legislation. Among the measures which he predicted would pass are a bill for full disclosures of union pension and welfare funds, publication of union financial statements and some measure to assure greater democracy in unions, to end trusteeship abuses.

The Massachusetts Democrat believes that the primary responsibility for cleaning up labor rests with the union leaders themselves. He thinks the AFL-CIO ethical practices code covers all the abuses exposed by the McClellan committee, of which he is a member.

"Perhaps the codes won't work," Kennedy admits. "But if they do, they will make the work of Congress a lot easier."

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D.D.

"Wait on the Lord; be of good courage and He shall strengthen thine heart," says the Psalmist.

This advice was given to a frustrated people beset with opponents poised to attack.

When we are faced with difficulties, opposition and fears, we become jittery. We lose our courage. We are likely to move thoughtlessly either into a battle or into a retreat from reality. If we pause to review the situation and turn to God, we shall find courage to face our adversaries. Sin and even the temptation to err dissolve before God.

There is strength in numbers. Especially is this true when God joins us in our hour of weakness. When we enlist God as our teammate, we find strength beyond human power. We enjoy a fellowship and a peace which knows no defeat.

Henry Clay was a first term member when he was elected Speaker of the House of Representatives.

"They do it on glass bricks," explained Peter. "They etch it on glass, then fuse another brick on top of it so that the writing's in the middle." Declared Moira, "But the people who come after, they won't know how to read our stuff. They may be . . . animals!"

"I believe they've gone to a lot of trouble about that. First steps in reading," replied Peter. "What sort of books are they preserving? All about how to make cobalt bombs?" asked Moira. "God forbid!" exclaimed Peter. They laughed. Distributed by NEA Sedalia, Inc. © 1957 by William Morrow & Co., Inc.

Weather Maintains Wet, Dreary Pattern

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The nation's weather maintained its wet, dreary pattern today, with rain, drizzle, snow and fog dampening many sections of the country.

A broad belt of precipitation extended over most of the area from the eastern Plains to the Appalachians and during the day was expected to cover nearly all sections east of the Mississippi River.

Thunderstorms, with heavy rainfall, hit sections of the Gulf Coast states. Winds up to 60 m.p.h. lashed New Orleans during the night while at Tupelo, Miss., more than 2 inches of rain fell in a six-hour period.
